TAFT'S CONSERVATION PROGRAM OUTLINED IN MESSAGE

Favors Classification of Lands According to Principal Value or Use.

NEW LAWS NECESSARY

Suggests Methods to Save Water Sites Recommends Reclamation Bond Issue.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—President Taft's special conservation message was delivered to the House soon after that body convened today. The members followed its reading carefully. When it had been concluded a roar of applause arose from the Republican side and several Democratic members also joined in the demonstration

In his message President Taft gives tribute to his predecessor for starting the conservation movement and urges continuation of the Roosevelt policies. Although the message is of special significance, in view of the long dispute of Gifford Pinchot, late forester, and Secretary Ballinger the President mentions that controversy but briefly, declaring that the result of the congressional inquiry into the case is not needed to determine the value of the new legislation he urges.

Basing his recommendations principally on those in the report of secretary of the Interior Ballinger and declaring the present laws inadequate, Mr. Taft asks prompt measures to save the nation's resources

He recommends a bond issue of $30,000,000 for the reclamation of arid lands and urges measures to safeguard the nation's water power.

"One of the most pressing needs of public land reform," he says, "is that lands should be classified according to the principal value or use."

Refuses to Father Bill.

Representative Tawney of Minnesota chairman of the House committee on public lands, declined to stand sponsor for President Taft's bills designed to carry out his program for conservation of natural resources. He offered to introduce the measures "by request," but the proffer was declined

The bills were sent to Chairman Mondell from the White House to be presented in connection with the message of the President which was read in the House today. They included measures for the temporary withdrawal of lands, for the classification of lands, prescribing methods for the disposal of classified lands by leasing and for the disposal of oil, gas and phosphate lands

As to all of these subjects Mr Mondell's view of legislation that is needed differed so radically from that held by the President that he told his friends he would not be justified in presenting the bills in a manner designed to give them his indorsement

Because he was chairman of the committee on public lands he left he could not decline to introduce the bills and so suggested that he should present them as having been introduced "by request" When Mr. Mondell's suggestion was communicated to the White House word was received that it was not satisfactory to the administration The President is said to have decided to seek another member of the committee on public lands to stand sponsor for the proposed legislation.

"Request bills' have a way of getting lost in committees, and such an indorsement is regarded as equal to congressional disapproval

President Taft's Message.

The President's message follows

The Senate and House of Representatives

In my annual message I reserved the subject of the conservation of our national resources for discussion in a special message as follows

In several departments there is presented the necessity for legislation looking to the further conservation of our national resources and the subject is one of such importance as to require a more detailed and extended discussion than can be entered upon in this communication. For that reason I shall take an early opportunity to send a special message to Congress on the subject of the improvement of our waterways; upon the reclamation and irrigation of arid, semiarid and swamp lands, upon the preservation of our forests and the reforesting of suitable areas, upon the classification of the public domain with a view to separating agricultural, mineral and phosphate lands and sites belonging to the government bordering on streams suitable for the utilization of water power"

In 1880 we had a public [illegible] of 1,055,911,288 acres We have [illegible] 354,081 acres confined largely to the mountain ranges and the arid and semiarid plains We have, in addition, 368,[illegible]76 acres of land in Alaska.

Yards Given Away.

The public land laws during the earliest administrations treated as a national asset for the settlement of the public debt and as a source of reward for our soldiers and native [illegible] Later on they were done away with in favor of aid of the construction of [illegible] and railways. TAFT IS RECONCILING REPUBLICAN FACTIONS

President Announces Agreement for Caucus on Ballinger Investigation.

SQUARE DEAL ASSURED

Insurgent Leader Denies Statement That Speakership Fight Has Been Ended.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—The dove of peace succeeded in getting reasonably near a perch today on the field occupied by the warring Republican factions of the House. When Representative Hayes of California, the mediator for the insurgents, returned to the House after one of his frequent calls upon President Taft, the news circulated rapidly that a truce had been arranged and a more or less permanent peace in the Republican ranks was about to be announced.

This was confirmed when a statement issued from the White House and another from Republican Whip Dwight, announcing the details of the armistice The peace pronouncimento proved premature, however, for Representative Hayes, between numerous conferences with his associates, announced that no final agreement had been reached and that the matter would go over until tomorrow. At this juncture the insurgents gathered in the room of Representative Gardner of Massachusetts, issued another statement saying that "an understanding had been reached"

Taft Announces Agreement

The statement given out by President Taft follows

It has been agreed between the regular Republicans and the so-called insurgents, represented by Mr Dwight on the one hand and Mr Hayes on the other, after conference with the President, that a caucus should be held to pass upon the question of the committee in the interior department investigation with the assurance that the insurgents, if they came into the caucus, would be treated fairly and that a committee of acknowledged impartiality would be appointed.

"A further agreement was foreshadowed that caucuses would be held from time to time to which all elected as Republicans should be invited to take up the various measures recommended by the administration as performances of party pledges, the subject of each caucus to be announced in advance"

Hayes Speaks for Insurgents.

The statement, which was given out by Representative Hayes, follows:

"It is true that an understanding has been reached that we shall attend the caucus about to be held for the choice of the Republican members of the investigating committee The question of future conferences, however, is one on which there has been no agreement In fact I had no authority from my associates to enter into that question Of course, this agreement in no way affects the issue as to the present system of control of the House of Representatives"

Mr Hayes was asked if the word "we" used in his statement meant all the insurgents in the House He replied that it did, and that all of the insurgents concurred in the statement

Dwight Says Past Forgotten

The statement of Representative Dwight, the Republican whip of the House, concerning the reported misunderstanding between the regulars and insurgents follows

"The questions of the past have been forgotten The tariff bill is no longer a matter for discussion The speakership fight is ended The question of the rules is not now an issue We are confronted with the problem of re-

DENVER PRESSMEN STRIKE

Demand Increase in Wages and Newspapers Suspend Pending Negotiations.

DENVER, Jan. 15 (Saturday)—It is possible that no newspapers will be read at Denver breakfast tables today as the pressmen are on strike The demands of the International Pressmen's union for an increase of pay were still under discussion by representatives of the union and managers of the News, the Times, the Post and the Republican late tonight

The demands of the pressmen include a seven-hour day, an increase from $3.24 and $5 per day for pressmen and helpers to $4, $5 and $6 and back pay on the basis of a seven-hour day from March 1, 1909, when the demands were first presented.

The regular editions of the Post and the Times, afternoon papers, did not appear

At 1:30 o'clock this (Saturday) morning the conference adjourned. The managements of the morning papers announced that they would not issue a joint paper. The negotiations will be again taken up later today.

BALLOTING BEGINS IN GREAT BRITAIN

ELECTION CAMPAIGN CLOSED LAST NIGHT.

John Burns Predicts Revolution in United States as Result of Class Antagonism.

LONDON, Jan 14.—Tonight witnessed the close of the parliamentary election campaign. It has been fought on an issue that has not been raised before for three hundred years; and it has been fought with an intensity unparalleled in Great Britain in the present generation.

The conflict that opens the ballot boxes tomorrow for the first general election since 1906 is a death struggle between the two great political parties in the state the aristocrats and the democrats.

"Vote to protect the vote," is the exhortation addressed to the people tonight by the leading Liberal organ, and it then portrays how the conflict presents itself to the Liberals On the opposing side is ranged every possible influence in support of the privileged classes

Ample proof that the struggle is concentrated in the demand of the house of commons for a limitation of the powers of the peers may be found in the fact that all attempts to make home rule and the danger of the dissolution of the union a factor in the contest have proved unavailing

Quick realization by the conservatives that the rejection of the budget had been a mistake was followed by efforts to change the issue and this was seen in the introduction to the campaign of the new issues of a weak navy and the danger of German invasion

The Unionist free traders appear to be decided to support the tariff reformers

In an election speech at Islington tonight, John Burns predicted that the next revolution would arise in the United States as a result of class antagonism, due to the protectionist system

ANOTHER BLIZZARD SWEEPS THE EAST

SNOW TWELVE INCHES DEEP IN NEW YORK CITY.

Mayor Gaynor Has Narrow Escape From Death in Storm—Damage Enormous.

NEW YORK, Jan 14.—The heaviest snow storm of the winter fell upon the city early this morning and continued unabated all day. Since 11 o'clock last night 12 inches of snow has fallen.

Three persons died in the storm today from exposure.

Mayor Gaynor was lost for a time in the storm tonight while on his way to his country place at St. James, Long Island He was helped out of a drift with ears frozen and so weak that he spent the night at the home of a friend without further attempt to finish his journey

His companion, Charles E Shepard of Huntington, L. I., was blown off a trestle and sustained a broken leg and internal injuries. He may die The mayor only save himself by lying flat on the trestle and holding the side rails until he had in some measure regained his strength

The two men were passengers on a train which was stalled in the snow and attempted to walk through the storm to their homes

Added appropriations made today for the removal of the last snowfall, which has not yet been fully cleared away, will bring the total thus far expended this year to $600,000. A conservative estimate of what the present snowfall will cost exceeds $800,000

Ferry service was almost suspended at times Through trains on all railroads were late

The telegraph companies were badly crippled

PHILADELPHIA Jan 14.—Snow that began falling last night in eastern Pennsylvania and New Jersey today reached a depth of 16 inches or more in parts of this state Many roads and trolley lines were crippled

CHICAGO, Jan 14.—Dispatches from points in the Mississippi and Ohio valleys tell of enormous damage wrought by the recent cold and heavy snow. With a thaw in sight great apprehension is felt in many cities along river banks

ST LOUIS Jan 14.—Following a rise of 10 feet in the Mississippi river within 12 hours the levee tonight is strewn with ice and stranded boats, while a total loss estimated at $250,000 tells the story of the most destructive ice gorge in 25 years

The river rose to a stage of 31.9 feet early today, nearly two feet above the flood stage, when a gorge formed below the city forcing scores of vessels high upon the levee and throwing masses of ice, many of them 30 feet high, against bridges and stranded boats.

Breaking of the gorge later left the ice and boats high and dry The river stood at 22 feet tonight and is falling rapidly

ANTELOPE ENTER CORRALS TO FEED WITH CATTLE

SUSPECT IN SWOPE CASE SHADOWED CONSTANTLY

Five Detectives Working in Relays Watch Man's Moves Day and Night.

TRY TO TRACE POISON

Members of Family Believed to Have Been Inoculated With Typhoid Germs.

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 14.—A quick arrest will be made by county officials if the Chicago physicians now examining the stomach of the late Col. Thomas H Swope report that the organ contained poison The report is expected early next week

Every detail for the apprehension of the person suspected of having poisoned Swope and of attempting to inoculate other members of the family with typhoid germs is completed. Five private detectives are watching every move of the man They work in night and day shifts so that he is never out of the sight of at least one of them

These detectives have been shadowing the suspect for several weeks

The suspect is a man high in social circles here. His arrest would cause a sensation A prosecution backed by the Swope estate would precipitate a battle of millions

An unverified rumor tonight is that traces of poison were found in the stomach of Chrisman Swope, a nephew of Colonel Swope, who died on December 3 and that this led to the exhumation of Colonel Swope's body

That conditions in the Swope household precluded the possibility that the typhoid which recently has stricken several members of the Swope family originated there was stated by J G Paxton executor of the Swope estate today He said he had carefully examined the premises in company with several physicians Plumbers have said that the water system of the house has been in perfect order for months

A theory that Colonel Swope was given a capsule containing poison an hour before his death is being run down by the prosecutor's office One basis for this theory is that Colonel Swope died in convulsions

His death it was announced had resulted from apoplexy The prosecutor today quoted physicians as saying death from apoplexy is not accompanied by convulsions

Virgil Conkling the prosecuting attorney and J G Paxton, executor of the Swope estate are straining every point to trace the purchase of the poison which they profess to believe ended the lives of both Colonel Swope and his nephew Chrisman and to account for the illness of seven other Swope heirs.

TELEGRAPH COMPANIES UNDER SINGLE CONTROL

Fact Is Revealed in Petition for Permission to Change Name of Postal Company

NEW YORK, Jan 14.—An unassuming petition of Vice President Charles C Adams of the Postal Telegraph Cable company for permission from the supreme court of this state to change the name of his company to the Trans-Continental Telegraph company revealed facts today which point directly toward a centralized control of the entire telegraph business of the country.

"Some years ago," said Mr Adams in his affidavit, "the Postal company disposed of its telegraph business to the New England Telegraph company which has since continued the business in the name of the 'Postal'"

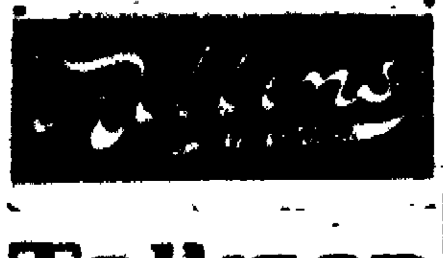

The New England company is controlled by the American Telegraph and [illegible] company which recently acquired a majority of the stock of the Western Union.

It is admitted that the Mackay companies hold $19,000,000 of the stock of the A. [illegible] Telephone and Telegraph company. [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

TAFT IS RECONCILING REPUBLICAN FACTIONS

deeming the pledges of the Republican party to the people

"Last Friday there was a vote in this House which caused a Republican division."

Mr. Dwight here referred to the vote on the Norris amendment taking the appointment of the Ballinger-Pinchot investigation committee out of the hands of Speaker Cannon and placing it with the House itself.

"That was a matter of no consequence and a small subject in which the people could have but little interest. It showed a division in the party. The next day I saw President Taft and laid the matter before him.

"I told the President that the so-called insurgents were represented as being the friends and supporters of the administration and ready to help enact his recommendations into law. I assured the President that the regular Republicans of the House were ready to do likewise. We were prepared also to go into caucus upon any proposition and abide by the result. Were the insurgents ready to do the same?"

"For the last two days conferences have been in progress and those who differed from us last Friday are now ready to enter the caucus and abide by the decision reached there."

Mr. Dwight was asked if the insurgents had been given any definite assurances as to the treatment they would receive in caucus.

"No," replied he, "except that they have been assured of fair treatment. They will not be discriminated against."

Democrats Will Caucus.

The Democrats of the House announced today that they would hold a caucus Saturday night to name the minority members of the committee to investigate the Ballinger-Pinchot affair. Representative Ollie James of Kentucky, Representative Slayden of Texas, and Representative Palmer of Pennsylvania were mentioned as possible nominees. The Democrats insist upon their right to name the minority members of the committee and if the majority declines to allow it, there is a prospect of a Democratic-Republican insurgent alliance upon the question. The insurgents say they are contending merely for a fair committee and care not who are its members.

It seldom pays not to pay your debts.

PINCHOT'S STATEMENT EXCITES DISCUSSION

No Reply Made to Charges He Can Have Counsel at Coming Investigation

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—In official circles today the statement issued last night by Gifford Pinchot, who was recently dismissed by President Taft from the post of chief forester of the United States took first place among the topics discussed. It is not likely it is said, that any reply will be made by the administration, though his statement sharply criticised the course it has pursued.

The question whether witnesses in the Ballinger-Pinchot investigation shall be permitted to be represented by counsel, and if so, what limitation shall be placed upon their activities, is proving a serious problem to the conferees of the Senate and the House who met today.

It was practically decided that when a witness found himself accused of wrongdoing he could not be denied an attorney. It follows, therefore, that former Forester Pinchot, who was dismissed from the government service by order of the President, would be entitled to have his lawyer present throughout the congressional investigation. Secretary of the Interior Ballinger likewise will be entitled to have his attorney present at all times.

An effort is being made by the committee to prevent a forensic gathering in the tribunal that would be likely to prolong the case. There are many members of Congress who have no sympathy with the inquiry as it will delay legislation to conserve natural resources. They say if lawyers are admitted at all, the case will drag. They are advocates of the Senate plan, which was to shut out all lawyers and leave the interests of the principals to the controversy, to be looked after by members of the investigation committee.

It is said that the House will win on its provision that the inquiry shall be confined to the present Congress, with a report before adjournment. This is taken to mean that after the inquiry has been concluded, President Taft's conservation program will be pressed and legislation enacted at this session. The conferees will conclude their deliberations probably in time to report to the Senate Monday.

Some men can get a wonderful amount of satisfaction out of a sneeze.

INAUGURATION CHANGE SAVED FROM DEFEAT

Opponents of Resolution Show Unexpected Strength and House Adjourns Without Voting.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—An unexpected early adjournment of the House today probably saved from defeat the Henry resolution proposing an amendment to the constitution changing the date of presidential inaugurations.

Led by Representative Perkins of New York, the opponents of the resolution showed unsuspected strength. Fearful lest he could not muster enough votes to secure the required two-thirds majority for adoption of the resolution, in the absence of several members who were committed to its support, Representative Henry of Texas was determined to prevent a vote.

At 4 o'clock, after he had spoken 40 minutes, he asked unanimous consent to continue for one hour. Representative Shirley of Kentucky objected.

Representative Gaines of Virginia then moved the previous question, and on a division the motion prevailed by the close vote of 62 to 61. To prevent a vote, Mr. Henry made the point of no quorum, but before the speaker could order the doors closed and absentees brought in, Mr. Parker saved the day with a motion to adjourn, which was carried without opposition.

Declaring that the inauguration of the President, once "quiet and decorous," had grown into an "enormous assemblage and show," Representative Perkins of New York opposed the proposed amendment.

Mr. Perkins said all the clamor for the change had come from the city of Washington. He said satirically that he was just as anxious to amend the constitution so as to have a pleasant day for inauguration as he was to insure a nice day for a three-ring circus.

The Senate was not in session today.

ESTRADA IS ADVANCING

Decisive Battle Expected Soon to Take Place Near Capital of Nicaragua.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—The state department has received a dispatch from United States Consul Olivaez at Managua, announcing that General Estrada is advancing on that city, and that a decisive battle will probably soon take place.

BLUEFIELDS, Jan. 14.—General Chamorra of the insurgents reports an engagement between his vanguard and the Madriz outposts. The communication was broken owing to faulty wires before the casualties were given, although it is clear Chamorra's men had the better of the skirmish.

It is evident now that the battle to decide military supremacy in Nicaragua will be fought almost at the gates of the capital. Whether Vasquez's retreat was owing to his weakness or that he is falling back to a reserve force is a question that is perplexing the Estrada government officials.

Vasquez is crafty and the result of the impending battle is by no means a foregone conclusion in the minds of the provisional government. Reserve forces are preparing to march. They will go to Chamorra's cache of supplies at Rama. Chamorra telegraphs that his men are eager for a fight.

A telegram from Acoyapa says spies declare that Madriz has bottled all sources of news on the Pacific coast.

MANAGUA, Jan. 14.—The government declares there has been no battle at Acoyapa, as reported a few days ago.

Reports emanating from Granada say that there was a nengagement on January 12 near Jacinto.

COUNCILMEN BRIBED

Charges of Conspiracy Filed in Connection With Pittsburg Graft Scandals of 1908.

PITTSBURG, Jan. 14.—President E. H. Jennings and Vice President F. A. Griffin of the Columbia National bank, Max G. Leslie, county delinquent tax collector, and former Republican city chairman, Charles Stewart, former councilman, and F. F. Nicola, a capitalist and real estate operator, were arrested today on warrants charging them with conspiracy to cause the selection of the Columbia National bank as a city depository.

In addition Leslie is charged with perjury and another information alleges that for two years he made a business of soliciting the aid of councilmen to influence legislation.

All gave bail.

The charges are the result of the graft scandals of 1908, when it was brought out that councilmen had been paid money to vote for six depositories, for which some convictions have been already secured.

CHICAGO, Jan. 14.—Congress was requested to abolish the publicity feature of the new corporation tax law in a resolution adopted by 200 delegates, representing 90 of the important commercial and industrial organizations of the country here today.

The meeting was held under the auspices of the Illinois Manufacturers association.

It was recommended that a committee be appointed to devise ways and means to test the constitutionality of the law if deemed advisable. The sense of the meeting was also that the whole law eventually should be repealed.

PLOTTERS ARRESTED AT SPANISH CAPITAL

Eighty Army Officers Seized at Military Club—Italian Prince Involved.

PARIS, Jan. 14.—Eighty army officers were arrested in Madrid this afternoon, according to a dispatch from the Spanish capital. The officers were in the military club when a cordon of police was thrown around the building and they were taken into custody.

MADRID, Jan. 14.—Prince Pignatelli was arrested today, accused of complicity in the alleged plot of the conservatives to overthrow the government. Count De Villar, captain general of Madrid, has been removed. There are rumors that Alfonso's life has been in grave danger.

Other startling arrests are expected. The plot to bring about the overthrow of the government is said to be far reaching, and to have its roots in foreign capitals. Prince Pignatelli is an Italian and an enthusiastic supporter of the Clerical party.

The immediate object of the plot, it is said by those in close touch with the situation, was the forcing of Minister of War Luque's resignation and the fall of the new ministry headed by Moret y Prendergast, the Liberal leader.

It was learned today that Senor Llorens, an officer and a Carlist deputy, was the author of the articles in the Correspondencia Militare which revealed the Conservatives' plans to arouse the army. The suppression of the issue containing the most startling declarations resulted in the demonstration of army officials in front of the office of the paper.

This demonstration was followed by a cabinet meeting attended by King Alfonso, at which drastic measures were decided upon.

MINE DISASTER AVERTED

Three Hundred Men Imprisoned by Flames Escape Through Connecting Workings.

TRINIDAD, Jan. 14.—Fire, starting from a match dropped in the straw of the mule stable, cut off 300 miners from the shaft of the No. 2 mine of the Colorado Fuel and Iron company today. Before the men could be warned the shaft was choked with smoke, but the miners escaped safely through the connecting workings of the No. 1 mine of the Colorado Fuel and Iron company and the Rene mine whose shaft is on the other side of the mountain four miles from the No. 2 mine.

SAN FRANCISCO VOTES FOR NEW WATER SYSTEM

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 14.—By a vote of 32,876 to 1,607, San Francisco, at a special election held today, authorized a bond issue of $45,000,000 for the acquisition of reservoir sites at Lake Eleanor, in Hetch Hetchy valley in the high Sierras, and a comprehensive distributing system for a municipal water supply.

The second proposition on the ballot, the voting of $35,000,000 bonds for purchase of the Spring Valley water system, which is at present supplying the city, was lost by 1,231 votes.

ANOTHER "MELON" CUT

International Harvester Shareholders to Receive $20,000,000 Stock Dividend.

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—Twenty million dollars in common stock is to be the share of the stockholders of the International Harvester company in the profits of the last few years. The announcement that this "melon" would be cut was made at the offices of J. P. Morgan and company here today. The distribution is to be made ratably as a stock dividend to the present $60,000,000 of common stock.

The decision to make the distribution followed a preliminary report to a meeting of the directors today by the controller of the company. This report showed that after setting aside reserves in excess of those set aside in 1906 the earnings of the company for 1909 exceeded $14,000,000.

The stock distribution is not all that the stockholders will receive, for the board of directors today further recommended that $2,300,000 be set aside out of last year's earnings as a 4 per cent dividend on the common stock. This stock has heretofore paid no dividends.

TAFT'S CONSERVATION PROGRAM OUTLINED

All the principal land statutes were enacted more than a quarter of a century ago. The homestead act, the preemption and the timber culture acts, the coal land and the mining acts were among these. The rapid disposition of the public lands under the early statutes and the lax methods of distribution prevailing, due I think to the belief that these lands should rapidly pass into private ownership gave rise to the impression that the public domain was legitimate prey for the unscrupulous and it was not contrary to good morals to circumvent the land laws.

This prodigal manner of disposition resulted in the passing of large areas of valuable land and many of our national resources into the hands of persons who felt little or no responsibility for promoting the national welfare through their development.

Many Frauds Outlawed.

The truth is that title to millions of acres of public lands was fraudulently obtained and that the right to recover a large part of such lands for the government long since ceased by reason of the statutes of limitation.

There has developed in recent years a deep concern in the public mind respecting the preservation and proper use of our natural resources. This has been particularly directed toward the conservation of the resources of the public domain. A vast amount of discussion has appeared in public print in generalized form on this subject, but there has been little practical suggestion.

It has been easy to say the national resources in fuel, water power and other must be saved from waste, monopoly and other abuses, and the general public are in accord with this proposition as they are with most truisms.

The problem however, is how to save and how to utilize, how to conserve and still develop; for no sane person can contend that it is for the common good that nature's blessings are only for unborn generations.

Among the most noteworthy reforms initiated by my distinguished predecessor were the vigorous prosecution of land frauds and the bringing to public attention of the necessity for preserving the remaining public domain from further spoliation for the maintenance and extension of our forest resources and for the enactment of laws in place of obsolete statutes so as to maintain government control over that part of the domain in which occur the deposits of coal, of oil and of phosphate, and in addition thereto to preserve control, under conditions favorable to the public, of the lands along the streams in which the fall of water can be made to generate power to be transmitted in the form of electricity many miles to the point of its use, known as 'water power.'

The investigation into public land frauds and their prosecution have been vigorously continued under my administration as has been the withdrawal of coal lands and temporary withholding of power sites. Since March 4, 1909, temporary withdrawals of public power sites have been made on 102 streams, and these withdrawals cover 229 per cent more streams than were covered by the withdrawals made prior to that date.

New Laws Are Needed.

The present statutes, except so far as they dispose of the precious metals and the purely agricultural lands, are not adapted to carry out the modern view of the best disposition of public lands to private ownership, under conditions offering on one hand sufficient inducement to private capital to take them over for proper development with restrictive conditions on the other which shall secure to the public that character of control which will prevent a monopoly or misuse of the lands or their products. The power of the secretary of the interior to withdraw tracts of land, the disposition of which under present statutes would be detrimental to the public interests is not clear or satisfactory.

This power has been exercised in the hope that congress might affirm the action and frame laws adapted to the new condition. Congress has not thus far fully acted on the recommendations of the executive and the question as to what the executive is to do under the circumstances is not fully understood.

Urges Reclassification

One of the most pressing needs in the matter of public land reform is that lands should be classified according to their principal value or use. This ought to be done by that department whose force is best adapted to that work. It should be done by the interior department through the geological survey. Much of the confusion, fraud and contention which has existed in the past has arisen from the lack of an official and determinative classification of the public lands and their contingents.

It is now proposed to dispose of agricultural lands as such, and at the same time to reserve for other disposition the treasure of coal, oil, asphaltum, natural gas and phosphate contained therein. This may be best accomplished by separating the right to mine from the title to the surface, giving the free use of so much of the latter as may be required for the extraction of the deposits.

The surface might be disposed of as agricultural under the general agricultural statutes while the coal or mineral could be disposed of by a lease on a royalty basis with provision of a certain amount of development each year, and in order to prevent the cession of such lands with others of the same character so as to constitute a monopoly the lease should contain suitable provisions as to the forfeiture of the interest of persons participating in such monopoly.

It is exceedingly hard to frame a statute for government over a property developed by private capital in such manner as to secure the government's purpose and at the same time not frighten away the investment of the necessary capital. Hence it may be necessary by laws that are really only experimental to determine from their operation what is the best method of securing the result aimed. The value of phosphate is hardly realized and with the need that there will be for it as the years roll on and the necessity for fertilizing the land becomes more acute, this product will probably attract the greed of monopolies.

Conservation of Water Power.

With respect to the public land which lies along the streams, offering opportunity to convert water power into transmissible electricity, another important phase of the public land question is presented.

The opinion is held that the transfer of sovereignty from the federal government to the territorial governments as they became states included the water power in the rivers except so far as that owned by riparian holders.

I don't think it necessary," the President says, "to go into a discussion of this question of law. It seems to me sufficient to say that the man who owns and controls the land along the stream from which this power is to be converted, owns land which is indispensible to the conversion and use of that power.

A Means of Control

"I cannot conceive how the power in streams flowing through public lands can be made available at all except by using the land itself as the site for the construction of the plant by which the power is generated and converted and securing a right of way thereover for transmission lines. Under these conditions, if the government owns the adjacent land—if the government is the riparian owner—it may control the use of the water power by imposing proper conditions for the disposition of the land necessary in the creation and utilization of the water power.

The development in electrical appliances for the conversion of the water power into electricity to be transmitted long distances has progressed so far that it is no longer problematical but it is a certain inference that in the future the power of the water falling in the streams to a large extent will take the place of natural fuels. In the disposition of the domain already granted many water power sites have come under absolute ownership, and may drift into one another, so that all the water under private ownership shall be a monopoly.

Can Prevent Power Monopoly.

"If, however, the water power sites now owned by the government and there are enough of them shall be disposed of to private persons for the investment of their capital in such a way as to prevent their union for purposes of monopoly with other water power sites, and under conditions that shall limit the right of use to not exceeding 50 years, with renewal privileges, and some equitable means for fixing terms of rental and proper means for determining a reasonable graduated rental, it would seem entirely possible to prevent the absorption of these most useful lands by a power monopoly. As long as the government retains control and can prevent their improper union with other plants, competition must be maintained and prices kept [illegible].

"In considering the conservation of the national resources of the country the feature that takes hold of all others, including woods, waters, minerals, is the soil of the country. It is incumbent upon the government to [illegible] by all available [illegible] the resources of the country that produce the food of the people. To this end the conservation of the soils of the country should be cared for with all means at the government's disposal. Their productive powers should have the attention of our scientists that we may [illegible] soils, drain wet soils, ditch [illegible] soils, levee river [illegible] now idle [illegible] day by [illegible] and [illegible] the farm they originally come from so the soil can again be enriched.

A work of the utmost importance to inform and instruct the public on this chief branch of the conservation of our resources is being carried on successfully in the department of agriculture but it ought not to escape public attention that state action in addition to that of the department of agriculture, as for instance the draining of swamp lands, is essential to the best treatment of the soils in the manner above indicated.

The act by which in semi-arid parts of the public domain the area of the homestead has been enlarged from 160 to 320 acres has resulted most beneficially in the extension of 'dry farming' and in the demonstration which has been made of the possibility through a variation in the character and mode of culture, of raising substantial crops without the presence of such a supply of water as has been heretofore thought to be necessary for agriculture.

Irrigation Is Essential.

But there are millions of acres of completely arid land in the public domain which by the establishment of reservoirs for the storing of water and the irrigation of the lands may be made much more fertile and productive than the best lands in a climate where the moisture is from the clouds. There is recognized the importance of this method of artificial distribution of water on arid lands by the passage of the Reclamation act. The proceeds of the public land creates the fund to build the works needed to store and furnish the necessary water and it was left to the secretary of the interior to determine what project should be selected among those suggested and to direct the reclamation service with the funds at hand, and through the engineers in his employ to construct the works.

"No one can visit the far west and the country of arid and semi-arid lands without being convinced that this is one of the most important methods of the conservation of our national resources that the government has entered upon. It would appear that over 30 projects have been undertaken and that a few of these are likely to be unsuccessful because of lack of water, or for other reasons, but generally the work which has been done has been well done and many important engineering problems have been met and solved.

"One of the difficulties which has arisen is that too many projects, in view of the available funds on hand, have been set on foot. The funds available under the Reclamation statute are not enough to complete these projects within a reasonable time. And yet the projects have been begun, settlers have been invited to take up land, and in many instances have taken up the land within the projects, relying upon their prompt completion. The failure to complete the projects for their benefit is in effect a breach of faith and leaves them in a most distressing condition.

Urges Bond Issue

"I urge that the nation ought to afford the means to lift them out of the very desperate condition they now are in. This condition does not indicate any excessive waste on the part of the reclamation service. It only indicates an overzealous desire to extend the benefits of reclamation to as many acres as possible.

I RECOMMEND THEREFORE THAT AUTHORITY BE GIVEN TO ISSUE NOT TO EXCEED $30,000,000 OF BONDS FROM TIME TO TIME, AS THE SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR SHALL FIND IT NECESSARY, THE PROCEEDS TO BE APPLIED TO THE COMPLETION OF THE PROJECTS ALREADY BEGUN AND THEIR PROPER EXTENSION, AND THE BONDS RUNNING 10 YEARS OR MORE, TO BE TAKEN UP BY THE PROCEEDS OF RETURNS TO THE RECLAMATION FUND WHICH RETURNS AS THE YEARS GO ON, WILL INCREASE RAPIDLY IN AMOUNT.

"There is no doubt at all that if these bonds were to be allowed to run ten years, the proceeds from the public lands together with the rentals for water furnished through the completed enterprises, would quickly create a sinking fund large enough to retire the bonds within the time specified. I hope that while the statute shall provide that these bonds are to be paid out of the reclamation fund it will be drawn in such a way as to secure interest at the lowest rate and that the credit of the United States will be pledged for their redemption.

"I urge consideration of the recommendations of the secretary of the interior in his annual reports for amendments to the Reclamation act.

Favors Forest Legislation

"Respecting the comparatively small timbered areas on the public domain not included in national forests because of their isolation or their special value for agricultural or mining purposes it is evident from the evils arising by reason of the imperfections of existing laws for the disposition of timber lands, that the act of June 3, 1878, should be repealed and a law enacted for the disposition of the timber at public sale the lands after the removal of the timber to be subject to appropriation under the agricultural or mineral land laws.

"The forest reserves of the United States, some 120,000,000 acres in extent, are under the control of the department of agriculture with authority adequate to extend them as far as possible. The maintenance of our forests cannot be exaggerated while the possibility of a scientific treatment of forests so that they can be made to yield a large return in timber without really reducing the supply has been demonstrated in other countries, and we should work toward the standard set by them as far as their methods are applicable to our conditions.

Upwards of 400,000,000 acres of forest land in this country are in private ownership but only 3 per cent of it is being treated scientifically and with a view to the maintenance of the forests. The part played by the forests in the equalization of the supply of water on watersheds is a matter of discussion and dispute, but the general benefit to be derived by the public from the extension of forest lands on water sheds and the promotion of the growth of trees in places that are now denuded and that once had great flourishing forests goes without saying.

The control to be exercised over private owners in their treatments of the forests which they own is a matter for state legislation because there is nothing in the constitution that authorizes the federal government to exercise any control within a state in which forests are owned in a proprietary way by the federal government.

It has been proposed, and bills for the purpose passed the lower House in the last Congress that the national government appropriate a certain amount each year from the receipts of the forestry business of the government to institute reforestation at sources of navigable streams to be selected by the geological survey with a view to determining the practicability of thus improving and protecting the streams for federal purposes. I think a moderate expenditure for each year for this purpose, for a period of five or ten years, would be of the utmost benefit in the development of our forestry system.

To Improve Waterways.

I come now to the improvement of the inland waterways. He would be blind indeed who did not realize that the people of the entire west, especially of the Mississippi valley, have been aroused to the need there is for the improvement of our inland waterways. The Mississippi river with the Missouri on the one hand and the Ohio on the other, would seem to offer a great natural means of interstate transportation and traffic. How far, if properly improved, they would relieve the railroads or supplement them in respect to the bulkier and cheaper commodities is a matter of conjecture.

"No enterprise ought to be undertaken the cost of which is not definitely ascertained and the benefits not definitely known. When, however, a project of a definite character for the improvement of a waterway has been developed so that the plans have been drawn, the cost definitely estimated and the traffic which would be accommodated is reasonably probable, I think it is the duty of Congress to undertake the project and make provision therefor in the proper appropriation bill.

Ohio River First.

One of the projects which answers the description I have given is that of introducing dams into the Ohio river from Pittsburg to Cairo, so as to maintain at all seasons of the year by slack water, a depth of nine feet. Upward of seven of these dams have already been constructed and six are under construction, while the total required is 54. The remaining cost is known to be $63,000,000.

It seems to me that in the development of our inland waterways it would be wise to begin with this particular project and carry it through as rapidly as may be. I assume from reliable information that it can be constructed economically in 12 years.

"What has been said of the Ohio river is true in a less complete way of the improvement of the Upper Mississippi from St. Louis to a constant depth of six feet and of the Missouri from Kansas City to St. Louis to a constant depth of six feet, and from St. Louis to Cairo to a depth of eight feet. These projects have been pronounced practical by a competent board of army engineers; their cost has been estimated and there is business which will follow the improvement.

I recommend therefore that the present Rivers and Harbors bill make sufficient appropriations for their continuance.

Affects Railroad Charges.

I am informed that the investigation by the waterways commission in Europe shows that the existence of a waterway by no means assures traffic unless there is traffic adapted to water carriage at cheap rates at one end or the other of the stream. It also appears in Europe that the depth of the [illegible] is rarely more than six feet. But it is certain that enough quantities of merchandise are transported over the rivers and canals in England and France and Germany to [illegible] affect the rates the railroads charge and it is the [illegible] of this [illegible] we have, not excepting the governmental regulation through the interstate commerce commission. For this reason I hope that this Congress will take such [illegible] that it may be [illegible] the [illegible] of the new system of inland waterways.

"For reasons which it is not necessary [illegible] to state, Congress [illegible] to order an investigation into the [illegible] department and the forest service. The results of that investigation are [illegible] to determine the value of, and the necessity for, the [illegible] which I have recommended in respect to the public domain and in respect to [illegible]. I [illegible] that the [illegible] recommended be taken up and disposed of [illegible] which [illegible] has [illegible].

DENTAL PROGRESS--- PYORRHEA CAN BE CURED

Sore and bleeding gums are the first symptoms of Pyorrhea, the disease that destroys more teeth than all other maladies combined. In the advanced stages the inflammation becomes more intense, the formation of pus more rapidly destroys the tissues surrounding the teeth, the gums recede, the teeth loosen and spread or move from their natural positions. If this condition is allowed to continue it will result in the loss of all the teeth. If you have any of the above symptoms it is a dangerous condition and every day you delay makes the treatment more difficult and expensive. While the dentistry of today is not the dentistry of the past, many practitioners still claim pyorrhea to be incurable. We are making a specialty of the treatment of this disease and can refer you to any number of patients whom we have successfully treated. Many of these [illegible] hopeless cases. Teeth replaced by the Maxillary Method are acknowledged to be superior to all other artificial dentures as they combine beauty, comfort and durability.

By our modern methods we have reduced the pain to a minimum and placed the cost of this high grade work within the reach of all. MERCHANTS MUST TAKE BETTER CARE OF RUBBISH TO SECURE CHEAPER INSURANCE

Such trifling matters as the neglect of proper disposition of rubbish, the piling up of boxes and packing cases in the rear of stores, and in quarters occupied by other business establishments, and the cutting of windows in the wrong places in walls, is likely to cost property owners of Colorado Springs the much-looked-for reduction in fire insurance rates, unless more care is exercised, according to a statement made yesterday by Secretary F. H. Dunnington of the local board of fire underwriters.

Following the recent decision received from Chicago, to raise this city from a city of the No. 3 class to a city of the class No. 2 1-2, insurance inspectors are at work on the schedules of the business property of the city. Property owners are looking forward to a material reduction upon the completion of this work but, according to Mr. Dunnington, some are likely to be disappointed unless numerous small alterations are brought about and care is taken in the disposal of rubbish.

"If property owners would stop to consider the question," said Mr. Dunnington yesterday "they would see that a pile of rubbish swept into the corner of a back room, instead of proper receptacles, is costing them from 5 to 50 cents per $100 insurance they carry. Not only this, their neighbors are paying for the extra risk as well.

"Old rags are the most dangerous of all rubbish. If allowed to remain long they are likely to take fire of themselves. Then, there is a tendency to pile up excelsior and boxes. The danger in these cases lies in the fact that [illegible] one may drop a match, cigarette or cigar on the pile, and thus cause a fire. Charges are made for every one of these hazards, and their elimination would greatly reduce the rates of insurance on downtown business property. All insurance rates are based on a relative fire hazard, and every precaution taken to reduce the fire hazard reduces the rate.

Defects Costly.

"Defects in walls, such as the cutting of windows in improper places, poor wiring and other things also have to be paid for. I will not mention any [illegible], but it is a fact that [illegible] of [illegible] building in [illegible] city [illegible] affected the fire insurance rates of every other building in the block."

The men at work on the schedules are Paul Stebbens, chief clerk of the Denver inspection bureau of the Rocky Mountain Fire Underwriters' association, and A. E. White and John Waterworth, both inspectors, also of Denver. Headquarters have been established at the Acacia hotel. Messrs. Stebbens and Waterworth expect to return to Denver early next week, when it is expected, most of the work in the center of the city will have been completed. Mr. White will remain until full correction of all schedules has been made. He would not commit himself yesterday as to when this will be, saying that it is impossible even to make any estimate.

"In going over the city," said Mr. Waterworth, "we have found many opportunities for small improvements, and the property owners will be given a chance to remedy the hazards. There are places where slight improvements will mean many dollars to the property owners. After these improvements have been made, the schedules will be gone over again. There is a great amount of work, and it is impossible to tell when we will be through. We realize that Colorado Springs is a tourist resort of of the highest class. There are many hotels and boarding houses here, and we feel that the people of the city want us to take plenty of time making the inspection. As to rates, I can say nothing. That is not a part of our business."

When asked his opinion of Colorado Springs in general, from the standpoint of an insurance man, based on what he has observed thus far, Mr. Waterworth replied:

"It is like all other cities; there are some good things about it, and some bad. All cities are a good deal alike. They all have alleys, buildings and roofs."

STUDENTS NOT ASKED TO LEAVE COLLEGE

Principal J. W. Park of Cutler Academy Denies Sensational Report.

Because beer was served at a Christmas party given in their rooms in Hagerman hall, the Colorado College Y. M. C. A. has requested two Colorado College freshmen and three Cutler Academy students to vacate their rooms by today. The two freshmen, A. S. Hall and G. H. Lankis, left Colorado College some time ago. Frank Lynch one of the academy students implicated has not been attending classes since the middle of December. J. F. Flannigan, captain of the Cutler base-ball team, announced some time ago that he did not intend to return to school next term. George Keating, the third Cutler student is said to be innocent of any connection with the affair. He is Flannigan's roommate, but all the boys say that he was not present at the party, and knew nothing of it. Keating himself says that he has never touched liquor of any kind.

Principal J. W. Park of Cutler Academy denies the sensational report published in a local afternoon paper yesterday, that the boys have been expelled, suspended, or even asked to leave school. "As a matter of fact," said Mr. Park, "the trouble has not been brought officially before the discipline committee at all, and I do not believe any action will be necessary. The College Y. M. C. A. makes the rules to regulate the conduct of students living in the dormitories, and if the boys received any orders, they were to move to other quarters, but certainly not to leave college."

According to Professor Park's statement, the boys implicated actively in the affair were not regular students at either the academy or college at the time the Christmas supper was held. Flannigan, Lynch and Keating are from Holyoke, Mass. All are star athletes, and the academy will miss Flannigan and Lynch in baseball, football and on the track. Keating is a fast shortstop and will remain in school.

Professor Park also denies that any statement regarding the affair has been made publicly at Colorado College.

FRENCH SYNDICATE IS REPORTED INTERESTED

Rumored Golden Cycle Deal, Larger Than First Thought, Generally Credited.

With John T. Milliken of St. Louis, president of the Golden Cycle Mining company in New York, and with no denials made here, local and Cripple Creek mining men are inclined to credit the announcement in The Gazette yesterday that a well-defined deal is under way whereby the property of the company will be sold. The rumor that a French syndicate is interested became current yesterday, at the same time as a report that the sale price will be raised $6,000,000 or even $7,000,000. This raise in price is due to the fact that the property transferred will include not only the Golden Cycle mine on Bull hill, at Victor, and the mill in this city but the mine at Pikeview and coal lands extending from near the Union Printers home east toward Manitou Junction, as well. It is believed that Mr. Milliken's presence in the metropolis is to close the deal, as soon as reports of the experts, who are examining the properties in this locality, are received. H. McGarry, vice president of the company, admits that an examination is again being made for the English syndicate.

In connection with the report that a French syndicate has entered the field to purchase the properties, it is rumored that negotiations on its behalf are being conducted by Verner Z. Reed. It was through Mr. Reed that the Stratton's Independence mine was sold to an English syndicate. This could not be verified yesterday, as O. H. Shoup, partner of Mr. Reed in his Colorado enterprises, is out of town.

WILL CONFER TODAY

Mayor and Whitaker to Talk Over Fire and Police Matters. Shakeup Probable.

A shakeup in the local police department is imminent. Mayor H. F. Avery will confer with Commissioner of Public Safety E. C. F. Whitaker, probably today, in regard to several matters connected with both the fire and police departments. As a result of the investigation, several changes may be made.

Mayor Avery says he does not believe William Elliston, who recently resigned from the detective force, was "jobbed" by other members of the force, but that Elliston claims so. Sergeant Compton will assume the duties of deputy sheriff, to succeed A. O. Taylor, early next month.

NO PLANS YET

Question of Reservoirs Still in Indefinite State Preliminaries Announced Last Year.

With two of the officials most closely connected with the matter denying that they know anything of any action to be taken in the near future, there appears little probability of the question of a bond issue for a water reservoir, being submitted to the people of the city at a special election. Although the matter of an additional reservoir, to hold about 60,000,000 gallons of water, was discussed by the city officials about a year ago, as announced in The Gazette at the time, there has been no special action or discussion on the subject since that time. Both Mayor Henry F. Avery and Water Superintendent B. B. McReynolds last night denied knowledge of plans looking toward action along this line.

MEETING POSTPONED.

A meeting of the newly-elected officers of the Real Estate exchange, which was to have been held last night, was postponed until next week. Several questions of interest to real estate dealers and the city in general, are to be considered.

COUNTRY CLUB GIVES BALL

Annual Affair at Broadmoor Among Leading Events of Year Is Well Attended.

One of the most important social events of the year in this city was the annual Cheyenne Mountain Country club ball at Broadmoor last night, at which prominent society leaders from this city and Denver were present. In the receiving line were Mrs. J. Arthur Connell, Mrs. Thomas E. Curtin, Mrs. William M. Randol, Mrs. Wilfred M. Hager, Mrs. Walter F. Douglas, Mrs. Frank Gilpin and Mrs. Chaloner B. Schley, the wives of the directors.

The arrangement committee consisted of Butler Williamson, Karrick Collins, Benjamin C. Allen and Dr. J. F. McConnell.

The clubhouse was elaborately decorated with potted plants and cut flowers, together with lattices of smilax and red beech boughs. During intermission, a course dinner was served. Lohmann's orchestra of Denver furnished music for the ball.

In spite of the reputation for latitudinarianism he gained from his early trial for heresy, the late Professor Jowett, of Oxford, was intolerant of pretentiousness and shallow conceit.

FINDS MAN BEHIND ALTAR

Choir Boy Detects Stranger in St. Mary's Church—No Clew in Recent Robbery.

While making preparations for mass in St. Mary's Catholic church yesterday morning at 7:40 o'clock, Leo Colburn, a choir boy 9 years old, living at 9 South Weber street, discovered a man hiding behind the altar of the church. The man escaped before the boy could summon help. Father Raber makes little of the discovery of the man although he is at loss to account for his being behind the altar and does not believe that he was trying to rob the church. No trace has been found so far of the robbers who desecrated the sanctuary Wednesday night.

According to the description given by young Colburn of the stranger yesterday, he is evidently a tramp. He was poorly dressed, and appeared to be about 35 years old.

"We have had a number of propositions submitted in regard to the rooms which will be made vacant by the removal of the postoffice, but as yet nothing has been decided on," said William Lloyd, secretary of the Stratton estate, yesterday. S.S.S. DRIVES OUT RHEUMATISM

When the blood becomes overcharged with uric acid it continually grows weaker, more acrid, and poorer in nourishing qualities. The nerves, muscles and joints, instead of receiving their necessary nutriment from the circulation are gradually filled with the sharp uratic impurity with which the circulation is loaded, and the pains and aches of Rheumatism are the natural result. No amount of rubbing, or the application of external measures can have any direct and curative effect on the blood; the most to be expected from such treatment is temporary relief from the pains and aches. There is but one way to cure Rheumatism, and that is to cleanse the blood of the uric acid impurity. S.S.S. is the proper treatment, because it goes down and attacks the disease at its head, and by filtering out every particle of the uratic matter and strengthening and enriching the blood, cures Rheumatism in every form. S.S.S. changes the sour, acid-burdened blood to a rich, healthy stream, which quiets the pain-racked nerves, muscles and joints, cools the feverish flesh, gently removes the cause and drives Rheumatism from the system. S.S.S. reaches inherited cases as well as those which have been acquired, and good results are always experienced from its use. Special book on Rheumatism containing many valuable suggestions for rheumatic sufferers and any medical advice free to all who write.

A DOZEN FAMILIES CURED OF ITCH BY CUTICURA

Showed No Marks but Whole Body Itched Like a Million Mosquito-Bites—Sleep Out of the Question and Life Became an Inferno.

DOCTORS AND DRUGGIST TREATED THEM IN VAIN

"The Cuticura Remedies are the best in the world, as I know from experience. In Dowlais, South Wales, about fifteen years ago, families were stricken wholesale by a disease known as the itch. Believe me, it is the most terrible disease of its kind that I know of as it itches all through your body and makes your life an inferno. Sleep is out of the question and you feel as if a million mosquitoes were attacking you at the same time. Yet you could see nothing on the skin. But the itch was there all right and I sincerely trust that I shall never get it. I knew a dozen families that were so affected. The male members and myself belonged to the same society and, as steward, it was my duty to visit the sick members once a week for sick benefit until they were declared off. That is how I became so familiar with the itch.

"The doctors did their best but their remedies were of no avail whatever. Then the families tried a druggist who was noted far and wide for his remarkable cures. People came to him from all parts of the country for treatment but his medicine made matters still worse, as a last resort they were advised by a friend to use the Cuticura Remedies. I am glad to tell you that after a few days' treatment with Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Resolvent, the effect was wonderful and the result was a perfect cure in all cases.

"I may add that my three brothers, three sisters, myself and all our families have been users of the Cuticura Remedies for fifteen or twenty years. Thomas Hugh, 1650 West Huron St., Chicago, Ill., June 28, 1909."

Complete External and Internal Treatment for Every Humor of Infants, Children and Adults consists of Cuticura Soap (25c.) to Cleanse the Skin, Cuticura Ointment (50c.) to Heal the Skin, and Cuticura Resolvent (50c.) PLACE LARGE ORDERS

Railroads to Get Much New Equipment, Mostly for Divisions Through This City.

In preparation for the summer tourist travel and rapidly increasing freight business, the Denver and Rio Grande, Colorado and Southern and Santa Fe railroads are placing large orders for new equipment, most of the rolling stock of which will be used on divisions operating through Colorado Springs. The Rio Grande is to have eight new Mallet compound locomotives, weighing 310,000 pounds each. These are to be used on the Bingham branch of the Utah division, where traffic has become exceptionally heavy. Among other equipment ordered by this road are 150 all steel flat cars of 100,000 pounds capacity each; 50 refrigerator cars of 60,000 pounds capacity; 1,500 all steel cars of 100,000 pounds capacity; 1,500 steel underframe box cars of 80,000 pounds capacity; 500 steel underframe stock cars; 10 cabooses; 11 all steel passenger coaches; 10 all steel baggage and express cars; 30 locomotives, of which eight are of the Mallet type, and 3,672 tons of steel rails.

Fifteen Hart convertible dump cars and other additions to its rolling stock will soon be received by the Colorado and Southern railroad. The Burlington, Union Pacific and Santa Fe lines have placed heavy orders for locomotives and cars, many of which are for use in Colorado.

WELL-KNOWN COUPLE WED IN CANON CITY

Charles C. Castello of Mary McKinney Mining Company Marries Miss Graves.

Word was received by friends in this city yesterday of the marriage in Canon City yesterday noon, of Charles C. Castello, secretary of the Mary McKinney Mining company and Miss Florence A. Graves, of 410 North Weber street.

The bride is a descendant of one of the earliest French settlers in this country, Robert J. Lefevre, through her mother. Her parents live in Cambridge Springs, Pa., but Mrs. Castello has made her home in this city for several years. The bridegroom is a son of F. F. Castello, president of the Mining Exchange in this city; a member of the executive committee of the Cripple Creek Deep Drainage and Tunnel company, and president of the mining company of which the son is secretary.

While it was a current rumor the early part of this week that the young couple were to wed, none but a few of the intimate friends knew when the date was to be. Following the ceremony yesterday, Mr. Castello notified friends in the Mary McKinney office of the event, by telephone. Following a brief trip, Mr. and Mrs. Castello will make their home at 1702 North Tejon street, this city.

DR. E. NELSON SPEAKS

Addresses Odontological Society. To Meet in Denver on February 12.

A paper on "Current Dental Literature," by Dr. E. Nelson, was the principal feature of the January meeting of the Colorado Springs Odontological society, which was held at the Antlers hotel last night. It was preceded by a dinner, attended by nearly all the members.

Dr. Nelson's paper was a digest of various subjects of interest to dentists that have appeared in the dental publications devoted to dentistry during the last three months. There were also short addresses by most of the members present.

It was decided to hold the February meeting in Denver jointly with the Odontological society of that city. This meeting will be held February 12, the date of the annual clinic of the Denver University College of Dentistry.

Exposure to Wet, dampness and cold, invariably results in a sudden chill, which if not attended to immediately will cause a cold. By mixing a teaspoonful of Perry Davis' Painkiller in half a glass of warm water or milk, the whole system will be heated and the danger of cold averted. Avoid substitutes, there is but one Painkiller, Perry Davis'. Price 35c., 50c. and 75c.

PROF. REES LEAVES HIGH SCHOOL FOR PUEBLO

Local Instructor to Go to Centennial. Has Done Good Work Here.

Forest S. Rees, former government employe in the United States geological survey service, and for nearly a year a teacher in the Colorado Springs High School, severs his connection with the local institution next Friday, to become an instructor in the Centennial High school at Pueblo. At the local High School, Professor Rees has been teaching geology, and assisting in the chemistry laboratory.

During the short time he has been here, Professor Rees has worked hard to instill a genuine school spirit in the students, with the result that several organizations in the school are due to his work. His first achievement was the formation of an orchestra, which has grown to 10 pieces. The students were entertained in the assembly room of the school yesterday with a musical program by this orchestra.

It is also due to the departing instructor, that the first scientific organization has been formed in the High School. This is composed mostly of students in geology, and has for its purpose practical field work. The organization was formed about two weeks ago, and will soon adopt a name.

REPLIES COMING IN FAST

Attendance at State Realty Dealers Convention to Be Larger Than Was Expected.

According to replies to invitations received by Mrs Osie Kramer, chairman of the committee on arrangements, the attendance at the next quarterly meeting of the Colorado Realty Dealers association, to be held in Colorado Springs, January 19 and 20, will be even larger than was anticipated. However, arrangements have been made to entertain all who come, and it is believed that the convention will be the most successful, as well as the most enjoyable, that the organization has ever held.

The proposed bill placing real estate dealers under bond, and requiring them to obtain a state license before conducting business, will be discussed during the first day of the conference, and some definite action will probably be taken at that session. Senator W. L. Clayton of Denver will lead the discussion.

Mrs Kramer said yesterday that there are only a small number of banquet and ball tickets left among the lot set aside for local members of the organization and that those who are planning to attend make certain of getting tickets by obtaining them at once.

FAVORS PURCHASE

H. B. Magill, the Author, Writes Letter Approving Acquisition of South Cheyenne Canon.

That persons other than residents of Colorado Springs are taking an interest in the proposed purchase by the city of South Cheyenne canon is shown in the accompanying letter received yesterday by Alva W. Henderson, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce. The writer is H. B. Magill of Pittsburg, Pa., the author of "Little Journeys to Ancient Sanctuaries." The letter follows:

I have recently received and read with much pleasure a copy of The Evening Herald containing an account of the magnificent gift to your beautiful city in the form of the world-famed Garden of the Gods.

I notice the pending deal relative to South Cheyenne canon, truly do I hope that this charming spot will also be added to the city's possessions. It will add greatly to the interest of local affairs and incidentally to tourists and travelers.

What's Doing In the World of Sports

A 30-TO-1 SHOT COPS FEATURE RACE AT OAKLAND

OAKLAND, Cal., Jan. 14.—Favorites fared rather badly over the sloppy track at Emeryville today. One of the upsets came in the fifth race, when Right Sort, a 30-to-1 chance, won by a short head from Redmond II, favorite. Meltondale was another outsider to win. He led all the way.

The announcement that the meet will be extended 40 days at Emeryville was warmly welcomed by horsemen. Jockey Carroll Shilling has signed a contract to ride for Sam Hildreth from April to November of this year.

At Jacksonville

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Jan. 14.—The upset of today's card at Moncrief park was the fifth race, when Waponoca, a 12-to-1 shot, and Dr. Barkley, 10 to 1, beat out Shilla, the heavily-played 7-to-10 favorite. Waponoca came well to the front entering the stretch and although he had to be given a hard ride, he finished a winner.

At Tampa.

TAMPA, Fla., Jan. 14.—Layers again had the better of the argument today in the best day's racing that has yet been witnessed here. Only one favorite showed in front at the wire, but the well-played second choices made up for the losses. The attendance is showing a steady increase, summer-like weather prevailing.

At Juarez.

JUAREZ, Mexico, Jan. 14.—Only two favorites were successful at Terrazas park today. The track was fast, but there were a number of upsets during the afternoon. Elizabeth Harwood, neglected in the betting at 7 to 1, won the feature event at five and a half furlongs in the good time of 1:06 4-5. She took the lead easily, and won in handy fashion by two lengths from the favorite Sugar Maid.

IMPROVED BAT MAY ADD TO PERCENTAGE

Inventor Claims It Will Increase Hits and Make Placing Easy.

An application has been made at the patent office at Washington for a patent on a baseball bat which promises to solve the problem that is bothering the baseball world at the present time by increasing the interest and popularity of the national game. The two principal advantages which are claimed are:

First—That foul balls which now glance off the round bat will take a more perpendicular direction, enabling the catcher to have opportunities to put out the batter which he now lacks, and incidentally avoiding the annoying monotony of watching ball after ball disappear over the grandstand, while the catcher dashes into the boxes or against the net in the vain effort for an out.

Second—Increasing the chances of hitting a fair ball, and with more precision as to direction and distance. It is evident that a flat surface even of half an inch will offer a much greater degree of certainty to the batter than with the round bat, where one point must meet the ball in order to drive it straight ahead, and, similarly, if the ball strikes above the center of the bat, the tendency will be to glance upward from a flat surface.

In every department of the game of baseball improvements have been made since its inception except in the matter of the bat, which is now practically what it was in the beginning. Several prominent baseball players have expressed favorable opinions of this bat, and as soon as the spring season opens it will be tried out in practice by many of the professional teams.

If its superiority is demonstrated, it will ultimately be adopted by the major leagues. F. A. Ware, of 36 Broadway, New York city, who is the patentee, conceived the idea of a flat surface bat while watching games last summer which were made uninteresting by the endless succession of foul balls, which were only interrupted by occasional strikes and spectacular plays.

WESTERN GOLF ASSOCIATION MAY BE REORGANIZED TODAY

CHICAGO, Jan. 14.—The Western Golf association will gather here tomorrow in what promises to be the most important meeting in the history of the organization. If the plan of the radical element of the association is carried out, this will be the last time the old Western Golf association will meet, and out of this meeting will emerge the new and invigorated American Golf association.

The following amendment to the constitution is to be voted on:

"Any properly-organized club on the continent of North America maintaining or controlling a golf course shall be eligible to membership in this association."

If this amendment is carried, the leaders of the Western association see a break with the United States Golf association. By the expansion the westerners cannot help but establish their organization as a rival of the eastern body.

A peace party has sprung up here in the last few days, and it suggests that the amendment be adopted with a two weeks' provisional clause dependent upon the action taken at the annual meeting of the United States Golf association next week. Then if the easterners change their constitution to make their body more national in character, the peace party will be willing to pass up the amendment and continue as the Western Golf association.

JEFFRIES IS GORILLA MAN OF STONE AGE BROUGHT BACK INTO THE FLESH

That Jeffries is fit as a fiddle is the expert opinion of a prominent Englewood, Ill., physician, who made a thorough examination of the big heavyweight for the Chicago Tribune. Following is the physician's report:

By Dr. C. W. Piper.

A gorilla man of the stone age brought back to the flesh, a reincarnation of a mighty Berserker, or a medieval mountaineer of the Atlas region, birthplace of the strongest men, any one of those might envy the huge frame and mountainous muscles of the Jeffries who passed the severe ordeals of science yesterday.

I have seen many athletes, both amateur and professional, and have examined a number, but never before has such a perfect, symmetrical physique been presented for scientific examination, at least to my knowledge.

Indeed, the only figure in classic art even that would compare favorably with Jeffries in sheer exposition of power is the Farnese Hercules. But these are generalities. A few specific facts may prove interesting and surprising to fight followers.

Summary of Condition.

This is what the examination indicated:
Heart in perfect condition.
Lung power tremendous.
Circulation good.
Absolutely no indication of muscle degeneracy.
Nervous system in excellent order.
No enlargement of the kidneys.
No sign of Bright's disease, the bane of many big men.
No disorders that will affect stamina.
One fault: Right arm crooked at elbow as result of injury received in a ball game.

When Jeffries stripped in a room at the Chicago Athletic association, I first measured him, using a steel tape in order to obtain the correct dimensions of the "battleship."

Jeff Balks at Scales.

I then suggested that he step on the scales, but the big boy laughingly declined, with the remark it would not be fair to his friends in the east, who had tried in vain to discover his exact weight. He claimed his poundage was not more than 238 pounds, but I fear he was joking, as I should say he weighed at least 250 pounds. This is not an excessive weight, however, for such a massive frame to carry.

Following the taking of the measurements I applied the usual instrument tests, first using the stethoscope.

At this point in the examination I received my greatest surprise. I confess I had been prejudiced against Jeffries by the reports of his five years of idleness and dissipation on the coast. I believed I would find evidences of fatty degeneration of the heart, and possibly serious valvular trouble. I found neither. The conclusion is that the reports were greatly exaggerated, or Jeffries is such an abnormal man that he is still proof against the ill effects of dissipation.

Heart Normal in Every Way.

I found the heart to be in the strongest condition. The beat was steady, powerful, and normal in every way, there being not the slightest indication of a lesion, enlargement or atrophy.

Before exercise, the vital organs registered 72 beats to the minute—an ideal mark. After moderate exercise I counted 80 beats, still using the stethoscope.

Realizing that the form of exercise had not been of a severe nature, I had the retired champion skip rope for at least three minutes. The dancing and hopping necessary in this movement have a direct effect on the heart, and I anticipated a greatly increased "beat." But it was only 92, and there was not the slightest indication of fluttering, which would have betrayed any hidden weakness.

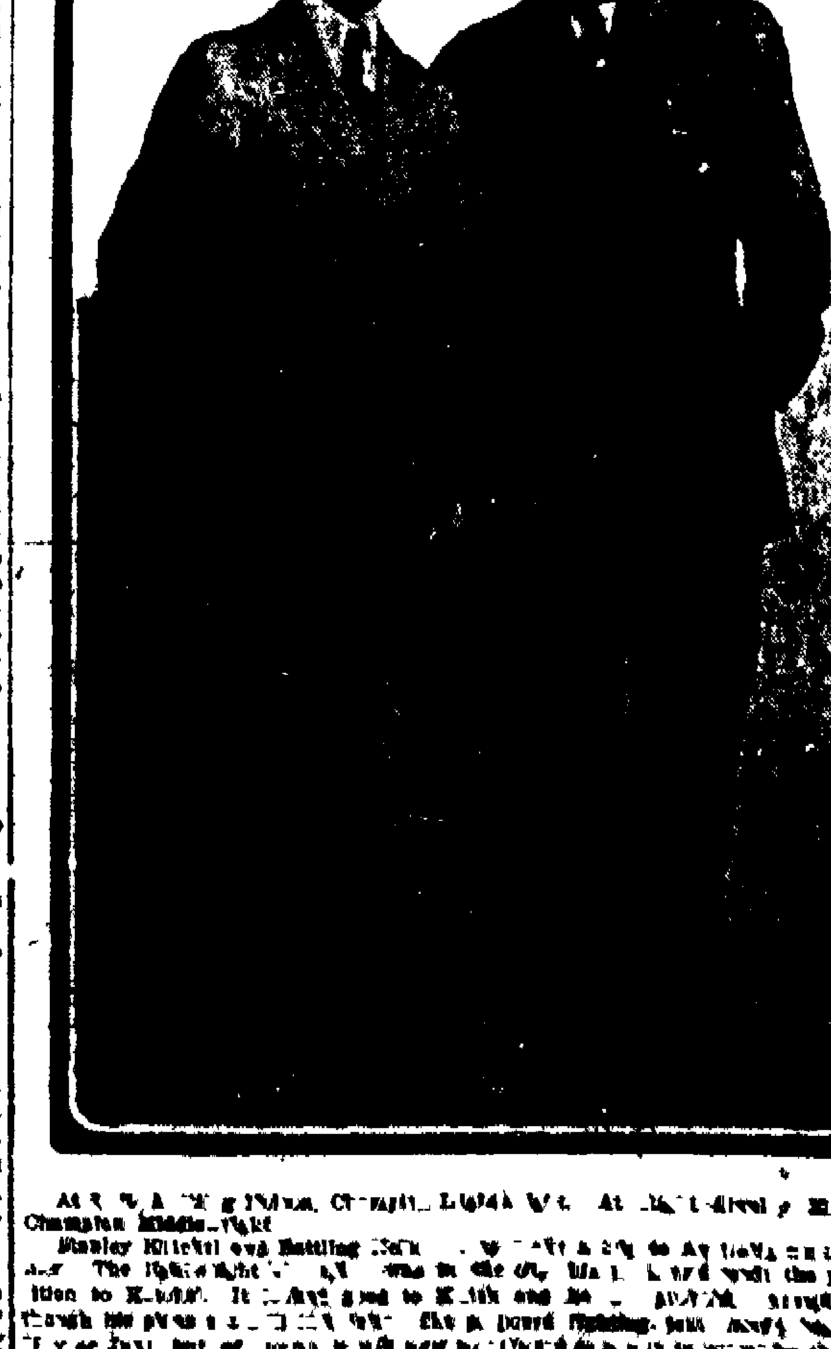

Within one minute—the period between rounds in a ring encounter—I again examined the heart and, to my surprise, found it registered 72—its normal. This may be regarded as significant of wonderful recuperative power.

Vast Reservoir of Strength.

What a battering this man could receive and after drawing from the reservoirs of his strength return for more! Is there a man in the world with power sufficient to continue hammering that matchless frame until its forces take flight?

That is the question I asked myself after completing the heart test. I am half inclined to answer it in the negative before the battle of July 4.

COFFROTH IS ALLOWED LIMITED FIGHT PRIVILEGE

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 14.—James W. Coffroth, the fight promoter, will again be allowed to conduct prize fights in this city after being denied that privilege for the last three years. At a meeting of the police committee of the board of supervisors held late today, the Shasta club, of which Coffroth is the controlling spirit, was granted a permit to hold a limited round fight in this city in the month of February.

A permit was granted to the Broadway club, represented by James Griffen.

No action was taken on the application of the Marathon club, represented by Jack Gleason, for a 45-round permit, and the question of the place of holding the Jeffries-Johnson fight is still undecided.

After the reform administration succeeded the Ruef-Schmitz regime, Coffroth was denied further permits and was compelled to conduct his fights at Colma, over the line in San Mateo county.

Sporting Notes

"Pin" money is what the bowlers are shooting for.

The paths of Jeffries and Johnson shall not cross again until they meet where Tex Rickard finds it most convenient.

Either the eastern or western skating association is proceeding over thin ice.

The ominous clouds in the golfing sky may turn out to be as feathery as those which recently darkened the baseball horizon.

If all the kindly things said about Con O'Kelly, the Irish wrestler, are true, he ought to develop into a "terrible Turk."

It looks as if Lynch law will prevail in the National league next year.

After spending several months in weighing voluminous testimony submitted to him, William H. Taft makes the illuminating finding that whisky is whisky.

By defeating an octogenarian, Bill Lang, the Australian heavyweight, is so elated that he wants to meet any Chestnut street newsboy.

The Pacific Coast league is anxious to expand into an eight-club circuit. The Northwestern league is anxious to put a team in Portland. The coast league will tolerate the invasion only on condition of being given Seattle and Spokane in 1911.

Rube Waddell made good on a $5 loan from Frank Gotch the other day in St. Louis. More wonder, the obligation had been due some three years. No wonder Gotch is the champion headspinner, when he is able to pry the Rube loose from a five-caser.

Charley Ebbets says he is sure to land in the first division next year. Wonder what he had in mind, the place where he votes?

The National league wanted a strong man for president. Judging from the energy Tom Lynch has shown thus far the owners may regret they ever named him.

Maybe the waiter who ran off with the 16-year-old heiress thought she was a tip.

Charles Murphy of the Cubs says that Brown and Overall are the best pair of righthanders in the National league. The two pitchers have taken Murphy at his word and demand aeroplane salaries for 1910.

LAJOIE NOW CARE FREE

Cleveland fans are very likely to see a very much different Lajoie at the second base when the season of 1910 is opened.

Though Larry played high class ball during his career with the Cleveland club as manager, still it cannot be denied that the worries of the managerial position had their effect on his playing.

While the average fan thinks the troubles of the manager are confined to the summer campaign entirely, such is far from being the case. The manager of a big league ball team is almost as busy during the winter as summer, although his efforts in the physical line are not so great.

Each day he must visit the club's office, do a number of little things that demand his attention, and incidentally baseball is the main topic of conversation from the time of his arrival to his departure. No matter how much he would like to shake off the troubles and cares of the position necessity demands that he give it his constant attention.

During the winter he must discuss possible trades, place his stamp of approval on this or that player, authorize the return of many youngsters to the minor leagues, keep in touch with the other players, fix their salaries and adjust any differences, plan for the spring training trip and also have charge of the work in the south. He must weed out the material and incidentally take a lot of blame if he lets a [illegible] player get away without a trial.

This winter Larry has been care free. It's questionable if he has given [illegible] ball a [illegible] consideration since the close of the season.

When he reports for the trip south in the spring he won't have a single thing to do but look after himself and it's a pretty good bet he will [illegible] as it has never [illegible].

GLEASON ASSURED OF FIGHT PERMIT

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 14.—Official assurance was given to Jack Gleason today that he can hold the Jeffries-Johnson fight in this city on July 4. Supervisor John L. Herget, formerly "Young Mitchell," the fighter, who is chairman of the police committee before which the applications for fight permits is heard, stated that he believed Gleason to be sincere in his attitude of independence toward Tex Rickard, and, this being the fact, he would give the local promoter his support. This virtually means that Gleason will be given the desired 45-round permit.

ONE "HIGHER-UP" INDICTED

Secretary of American Sugar Company Named by Grand Jury in Conspiracy Charges

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—The federal grand jury got the man "higher up" in the sugar trust today. An indictment was handed down against Charles R. Heike, secretary and treasurer of the American Sugar Refining company, and five others, as a result of the investigation into the sugar weighing frauds for which five men were recently convicted and four sentenced to prison for a year.

The other five men are Ernest W. Gerbrecht, former general superintendent of the Williamsburg plant; James F. Bendernagle, former cashier; Harry W. Walker, assistant superintendent of docks; Jean M. Voelker and James F. Halligan, both formerly checkers.

Of the six men Gerbrecht, Bendernagle and Voelker have been under indictment for several weeks but all will be tried under the new indictments returned today by Judge Hough in the criminal branch of the circuit court.

Henry A. Wise, federal district attorney, said tonight that the government had no present intention of instituting any proceedings against the American Sugar Refining company under the Sherman antitrust law.

SHAFROTH, AWAY, STILL WILL ACT AS GOVERNOR

DENVER, Jan. 14.—Governor Shafroth left for Washington this afternoon to attend the conference of governors at the White House January 18. Under the recent decision of Attorney General Barnett, the governor gets full pay during his absence from the state, unless he provides by executive order for an acting governor. Shafroth will transact the business of his office by wire through his secretary until his return to the state. All documents that require the executive signature will be held up until his return.

SEIZURE OF THESSALY IS THREAT OF TURKEY

CONSTANTINOPLE, Jan. 14.—The Cretan crisis took a new turn today, when Turkey, fearing that Crete would carry out her threat to recognize herself as a part of Greece by sending deputies to the Greek parliament, notified the powers that such a move would result in the seizure of Thessaly by Turkey. The ultimatum says that Turkey would be held to go [illegible] Turkish [illegible] until the matter [illegible] adjusted.

CHRISTY'S MODELS TESTIFY AGAINST HIM

HOWARD CHANDLER CHRISTY

And Some of His Famous Sketches.

ZANESVILLE, O., Jan. 14.—There was considerable diversion in the life of Howard Chandler Christy, the artist, according to the testimony of Charles F. Hall, a former Christy model, today in the habeas corpus proceedings of Mrs. Christy to obtain possession of their 12-year-old daughter Natalie.

Mrs. Hall, also a model, testified that the conduct of Mr. Christy in the presence of Natalie was at times most unbecoming. She said the artist struck his wife, knocking her down, causing her nose to bleed and "sitting upon her."

Mr. Hall told of incidents in the studio in which various models played a conspicuous role. There was much [illegible] between Christy and the girls, he said.

THE CONSERVATION MESSAGE.

...VENTS in Washington yesterday cleared the ...litical situation perceptibly. The President sent ...e conservation message to Congress, setting ...th definite recommendations as to the legisla...n which, in his judgment, is necessary to carry ...s policy to fruition. A conference at the White ... between the President and representatives ...f the two factions of the Republican party in ...use, resulted in an agreement that if the in...rgents take part in the House caucus they ...ould be treated fairly and that a committee of ...knowledged impartiality would be appointed.' ...cording to the statement given out at the White ...use, "further agreement was foreshadowed that ...caucus should be held from time to time, to ...ich all elected as Republicans should be invited, ...take up the various measures recommended by ...e Administration as performances of party ...ith, the subject of each caucus to be an...unced in advance'

...e dispatches add that this is an official rec...nition of the insurgents, and means that Cannon ...st go it alone. The Speaker has been thrown ...board by the Administration." We hope so, ...nd, if this interpretation of the meaning of the ...ite House "get together meeting is correct it is ...e best piece of news that has come from Wash...gton in many a day. By their victory over Mr ...nnon last week the insurgents demonstrated ...eir strength so forcibly that it would be folly ...r the President or anybody else to attempt either ...ignore them or to punish them. The tone of ...e Washington dispatches in the last ten days ...ified the belief that this was Mr. Taft's inten...n, so his course in using his influence to secure ...e recognition is all the more welcome.

...ERVATION ...SSAGE ...NCED. The conservation message has the right ring, and will do much to restore the public confidence which Mr. Taft lost when he espoused Ballinger's cause He asks ...r a bond issue of $30,000,000 for the Reclama...tion Service, and for legislation to promote the ...ork of river improvement in the Middle West. ...t what significant is what he has to say about ...ater power.

...e development in electrical appliances for the ...ansmission of the water power into electricity to be ...mitted long distances has progressed so far ...t it is no longer problematical, but it is a certain ...y that in the future the power of the water ...g in the streams to a large extent will take the ...e of natural fuels. In the disposition of the do... already granted, many water power sites have ...e under absolute ownership and may drift into ...together, so that all the water under private ...ship shall be a monopoly ...s, however, the water power sites now owned by ...overnment and there are enough of them— ...be disposed of to private persons for the in...ment of their capital in such a way as to prevent ...union for purposes of monopoly with other ...power sites, and under conditions that shall ...the right of use to not exceeding 30 years ...renewal privileges, and some equitable means ...g terms of rental and proper means for de...g a reasonable graduated rental, it would ...tirely possible to prevent the absorption of ...most useful lands by a power monopoly As ...as the government retains control and can ...nt their improper union with other plants, ...illion must be maintained and prices kept ...nable.'

...In this recommendation the President has ...en even a more advanced position than Mr. ...hot, whose whole contention with regard to ...ter power is that no perpetual franchises shall ...granted, but only limited franchises with privi...s of renewal at the expiration of fifty or seventy...five years on a basis of the value they possess at ...at time. The water-power grabbers know better ...n anybody else that fifty years hence these ...sites will be so immensely valuable that ...t according to their real worth would great...diminish profits—hence, their desire to obtain ...petual franchises now. But Mr. Taft declares ...that power sites should be disposed of "under ...tions that shall limit the right of use to not ...ing thirty years, and he further declares ...they should be disposed of only "in such a way ...prevent their union for purposes of monopoly ...other power sites"

...is is all that the most ardent exponent of ...ervation ... has asked Having already ...d this ... somewhat severely on other ...s we have ... our absolute indorse...of his position in this matter If his recom...tion is promptly enacted into law it will ...insure ... the people by preventing ...ing of what remains of one of their ...possessions ... the power that lies in ...

...Another important feature of the ...age is the recommendation for a new classification of the public lands ...rding to their principal value or ...e, and here again Mr Taft sustains ...on. Readers who are familiar with ...ry of the Cunningham claim in Alaska ...that the dispute arose because of the ...a corporation to secure title to valuable ...at a price much lower than they would ...to pay on the basis of their mineral ...an ad... that ... areas ...have has ... ...

geasing lands, etc. Congress is likely to have a good deal of difficulty in framing a practicable and equitable law to remedy this abuse, but it is a matter of sufficient importance to justify the most careful consideration.

The conservation message will further strengthen the belief encouraged by the anti-trust message last week that Mr. Taft was sincere in his ante-election promises of support of progressive legislation. If he now breaks off his seeming alliance with the reactionaries and aligns himself with the insurgents in their efforts to embody his recommendations into law the country's confidence in him will be completely restored.

SCHOOL NURSE NEEDED.

SOME weeks ago the El Paso County Odontological society invited the school board to attend a meeting at which the principal topic of discussion was the medical inspection of the schools with particular reference to the employment of a school nurse. Several papers by recognized authorities were read, all tending to the conclusion that the employment of a school nurse is not only up-to-date but necessary if the school authorities are to take proper care of the training of the youth.

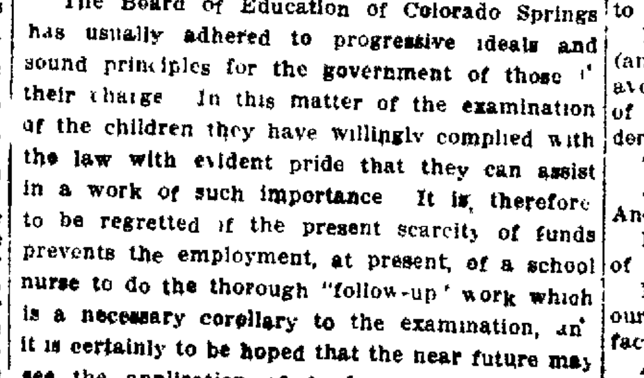

At about the same time that the meeting was held the school board in compliance with a recent state law, began to collect statistics, through the teachers regarding the mental and physical health of the children in their charge The law requires a thorough examination of all pupils as to their eyesight, hearing general health, and so on so that the ability of each individual may be 'catalogued' for future reference

Instead of following up the collection of such data with the requirement that all "defectives" be examined by a physician and then cared for by a school nurse the state solons stopped with the provision for the securing of the statistics In other words, they built all the framework necessary for the discovery of the individual ailments of the children and then neglected to supply the legislative machinery for remedying the evil. The actual accomplishment of definite good as the result of the collection of the data about the individual pupil by following up the examination by treatment, they left to the initiative of each separate school board

It is expected that the examination of the local school children will soon be completed It is also expected that there will be a large percentage of so-called "abnormal," defective children. What is to be the next step? To be sure the teachers will send the bare statement of the child's ailment to the parents, but in most cases of what avail will this be without the explanation of the disease or suggestions as to its proper treatment? Too often the matter will rest there. Right at this point is where the services of the school physician or the nurse would prove invaluable. If the work of the preliminary examination is to be beneficial, it must be followed by expert advice and constant supervision of the right sort until a cure is wrought or the child is made more fit than he otherwise would have been for the duties of citizenship.

Members of the Board of Education have said that they are in favor of the appointment of a school nurse and a school physician, but that such action in the immediate future was doubtful because of the lack of money.

The Board of Education of Colorado Springs has usually adhered to progressive ideals and sound principles for the government of those in their charge In this matter of the examination of the children they have willingly complied with the law with evident pride that they can assist in a work of such importance It is, therefore to be regretted if the present scarcity of funds prevents the employment, at present, of a school nurse to do the thorough "follow-up" work which is a necessary corollary to the examination, and it is certainly to be hoped that the near future may see the application of funds to that particular purpose.

NOT TO DESTROY MEN'S LIVES, BUT TO SAVE THEM

From the New York American.

The news from Nicaragua gives striking emphasis to the fact that the United States protectorate there is to be no diplomatic fiction

To thousands of exhausted and starving men we are giving food and comfort The wounded are receiving the care of physicians and nurses And the marines are policing the distracted and terror-stricken towns

Against the 'diabolism' of Zalaya we are sending the agencies of mercy and good will

That the country is reduced to the lowest economic ebb is evident from the fact that the victorious Estrada, with the best of intentions, is not able to provide for his prisoners the necessaries of life

To such an extremity has a nation been brought by an orgy of evil politics The working power of the people has been paralyzed

Thus the question of intervention is no question of making our government a judge and divider over our neighbors. For there is next to nothing to divide

Our mission is simply to make it possible for farmers to sow and for mechanics to build and weave

What we are doing in Nicaragua is a work of salvation And it is done openly and proudly on the birthday of the Prince of Peace.

DUE TO MISCONCEPTION.

From the Pittsburg Dispatch,

Misconception of the attitude of the United States toward Nicaragua has been responsible for the assumption in that quarter that this government was attempting to dictate to the people of Nicaragua as to ... should ... to Zelaya. The ... outstanding than Madriz, reported to be Zelaya's choice, was further objectionable because of his personal record does not mean that the United States will refuse to recognize him As Washington dispatches report the state department the attitude of this country will not be changed by the election of Madriz He will have to show that he is capable of directing a responsible government prepared to make reparation for the wrongs done to American citizens The position of the United States, as declared in the communication suspending diplomatic relations with Nicaragua, will remain unaltered Washington has no desire to intervene to say what the Nicaraguans must do or who they must elect The American forces are in Nicaraguan waters simply for the protection of American citizens and interests

That statement of the attitude of Washington dispels the complications that the uninformed have fancied they foresaw in the incident It is a plain course following a clearly defined policy, which, while recognizing and respecting the political rights of Nicaraguans insists upon an assurance of equal recognition and respect for those of Americans in Nicaragua

He labored on the railway track his task would break a horse's back, he tugged at things that weighed a ton and all the time the summer sun blazed down and cooked him where he toiled and still he worked though fried and broiled I grieved for this poor section man who drank warm water from a can and ate rye bread and greenish cheese and had big blisters on his knees Ods fish' quoth I when day is dead methinks you straightway go to bed! too labor worn to heave a sigh, as wounded soldiers go to die That's where you're off the toiler said 'I'm in no rush to go to bed you must be talking in a trance—tonight I'm going to a dance'' Gadzooks' thought I 'and ods blood' My tears have streamed a briny flood because of all the cares and woes the horny-handed toiler knows! And it would seem from what I learn, that he has fun and some to burn Gadzooks' again' It seemeth plain, that weeping in this world is vain''

The Daily Chit-Chat

Did you ever get in front of a mirror with a real strong light and see every one of your imperfections so plainly that it made you fairly sick at heart, and think to yourself, 'Now that's what I look like to other people?'

If you have cheer up

For it isn't so at all

As a matter of fact, when you look at yourself in a mirror you see an entirely different personage from the one your friends see

In the first place your expression when you are self-consciously scrutinizing yourself in a mirror is quite different from what it is under ordinary conditions I have noticed myself that people when they look in the mirror produce a peculiar set of wrinkles in their foreheads and beauty doctors tell me that too much self-scrutinizing does a great deal of harm in this way

In the second place you are looking for wrinkles and pores and lines and pallor and you see them, whereas your friends are looking at YOU and they see YOU

And in the third place I am told that many mirrors distort to a surprising degree, and thus make imperfections more painfully evident

Perhaps there are some among my readers who do not need this reassurance, who are always entirely content with the image their mirrors give back to them

But I am writing for the AVERAGE WOMAN (and when I can conveniently arrange it for the average man too of course) and I think that most of her once in awhile looks in the mirror and wonders, as I heard a foolish little girl the other day.

'How can anyone like me when I am so homely?''

And it is for her that I write the reassurance. And I want to add another one to it

I think it is often the same way with the mirror of self-analysis

Perhaps with most of us our casual glances at our mental and moral equipment is fairly satisfactory.

And then comes a day when somehow or other we happen to get good strong light on the mirror of our self analysis, and all the little meannesses and selfishnesses stand out in ugly prominence and we cannot see how anyone can possibly love us and how we happen to be so much worse than other people

But cheer up. We aren't.

I once heard the great evangelist Dr Wilbur Chapman, the man whom hundreds of men and women look up to as one of the best men living, tell how mean and little and ineffectual he often seemed to himself when he was in a self-analyzing mood.

But don't we know ourselves better than other people possibly can?'

No I don't think we always do

They don't know the inwardness of us, but we don't know the outwardness of ourselves

On the whole I think the mirror of self-analysis is no more truthful than the real mirror that hangs on your wall

So cheer up the next time you think you are the least desirable of all mortals

Cheer up "For it may not be true

What the Press Agents Say

PRIMROSE MATINEE TODAY

George Primrose and his minstrels will give a matinee at the Opera House this afternoon at 3 o'clock. Seats may be reserved for the performance at these prices: 25c, 35c, 50c and 75c. The evening scale of prices is: 50c, 75c, $1 and $1.50. Good seats may still be obtained for both shows.

One of the features of the Primrose minstrel production is the first part, "The Temple of Mirth." This is in the style of the old-time minstrel show, and introduces the popular songs, ballads and coon songs of the day. In addition there are the old-time end men, with their constant flow of jokes. George Primrose himself positively appears in the first part. Another feature of the first part is Mme. Rasefally and her famous female band. Enough said.

The olio of the George Primrose production is composed of a half dozen first-class vaudeville acts. George Primrose is seen in his own sketch, entitled, "Down ..." a spectacular singing act, introducing several beautiful and pretty ...

The Church City quartet, the most famous, perhaps, of all minstrel quartets, has been especially engaged for this tour to give a selection of favorite quartet songs in a picturesque stage setting, and with effective electrical effects. George Primrose offers the first minstrel production of the season, and is the first minstrel that has ever given a high-class production at a matinee at less than $1 for the best seats. It is highly probable that the entire house will be sold out for both shows today.

"THREE TWINS" SEAT SALE

Not since George M. Cohan appeared in this city has there been such a demand for seats for any attraction as there is for "Three Twins," which returns to the Opera House Tuesday evening for one performance only. The sale opened yesterday morning and by noon the house was practically sold out. There are a few seats left in the balcony, and some good seats scattered throughout the house. The gallery, which is not reserved, will not be sold until the night of the performance.

Owing to this unprecedented demand for seats, Manager Nye announces that all orders for seats to be laid aside must be called for by Monday evening. This is positive, for no seats, unless paid for, will be held after Monday night. The prices for "Three Twins" are: 50c in gallery, balcony, $1, dress circle, $1.50, and parquet, $2.

"Three Twins" is one of the prettiest, snappiest, lightest musical comedies on the road. The company numbers 62 people excluding the orchestra, stage manager, electricians, etc. The company is headed by Bessie Clifford, the Yama Yama girl, and Victor Morley, one of the three twins.

The production is a lavish one. The stage settings are handsome and the costumes of the class usually put on only in a metropolitan production. The electric effects are original in the real sense of the word. The electric swing is certainly the most elaborate affair ever attempted on the musical comedy stage. As for the song hits, there are plenty, including that haunting, whistling air, "The Yama Yama Man," and the "Cuddle Up a Bit Closer."

JAMES J. JEFFRIES

The James J. Jeffries Combination comes to the Opera House for one night, Thursday.

Jim Jeffries now effectually hooked up with Jack Johnson for the world's championship fight of next summer, will make what in all probability will be his last public appearance in Colorado Springs, when, at the Opera House, Thursday, at the head of H. H. Frazee's troupe of athletes, he will appear at one night performance.

The big combination will bring to Colorado Springs several world-famous athletes, including Frank Gotch, the wrestling champion; Farmer Burns, Sam Berger, Jeff's sparring partner, and others. The show runs a period of a couple of hours or more, and includes a juggling and spinning act, acrobats, wrestling by Gotch and Burns, Gotch offering a big forfeit to any one he fails to down in the quarter-hour dash, and other features, in addition to Jeffries in his gymnasium act. This act includes shadow boxing, rope dancing and illustrates a variety of exercises which the big fellow goes through daily to perfect his condition for the coming battle. The big fellow concludes with Berger, winding up the show.

LAST CHANCE TO SEE FINE MAJESTIC BILL

Today offers the last opportunity to see the interesting show at the Majestic. He has been ... this week and the favor the bill has received ... large houses. The program is full of variety, with no two acts alike, except that the Great Williams and LaVelle and Grant both give exhibitions of strength. But they are so different that each has an interest all its own, and ... is indicated by the applause they receive.

The stellar attraction is the turn of Charles E. Colby and Lillie E. ...ey. ... give an exhibition of ventriloquism that is not only an amazing ... of ... gift, but is full of ... Miss ...ey as a ... will give an exhibition ... impossible ... bows at the close making a move that suggests that she is a living person instead of a mere mechanical toy.

Josephine Ainsley is another hit. She has some songs that are right to the point and she not only knows how to sing them right, but has the voice to do it with. The Majestiscope offers a novelty that is full of new and thrilling scenes, and the orchestra program is fine, as usual. The bill is heartily to be recommended to all who enjoy the highest-class of vaudeville.

SWELL PROGRAM PACKED THE CRYSTAL.

"The Engineer's Romance."—Jim Black, a handsome young locomotive engineer, is in love with Mary Stevens, the pretty telegraph operator at Clay Junction. Mary's father is the section foreman at that point. One morning after her father has left on the handcar, with his men to repair some track at a distance, Mary, with her two little sisters, is left in charge of the station. Some rough characters, seeing her isolated position and suspecting that there is money in the safe, determine to rob the place. One of them enters the station and engages Mary in conversation. She mistrusts him because of his suspicious movements and locks the safe. While he is in the station the train dispatcher informs Mary that Jim Black will be at Clay Junction in a few minutes and to order him to proceed immediately to Rockland Siding, ten miles away, for special service. The stranger leaves the station.

When Jim arrives at Clay Junction Mary tells him of her fears. He tries to allay them—laughs about for strange men they have gone. After kissing his sweetheart Jim jumps on the engine and starts for Rockland Siding. The ruffians, seeing that the coast is clear, try the door of the station and find it bolted on the inside, but this does not deter them. They attack the door with a crowbar, the resistance offered serving only to excite their fury. Mary sends a ... to Rockland Siding, where Jim has just arrived and is about to start out with the passenger train. Y. W. C. A. Notes

The Rev. David G. Monfort will lead the vesper service at the association rooms, 409 DeGraff building, tomorrow afternoon at 5 o'clock. Miss Leona Thatcher will sing. All women are cordially invited.

Beginning a week from tonight, a 15-cent supper instead of a 10-cent supper will be served to members of the association. A guest fee of 5 cents will be charged for these suppers. The 10-cent suppers have proved most popular, but the raise in price seems desirable because many of the girls prefer a more substantial supper.

On next Tuesday evening, January 18, at 8 o'clock, there will be a social time in the association rooms. Misses Havens and Sawin are in charge of the entertainment. The members of the association who are stenographers and their friends are especially invited, but other members of the association will be welcome.

Those who are planning to enter the physical culture and cooking classes are requested to register as soon as possible, for neither of these classes will be started next term unless there is the required number of 25 in the former and 10 in the latter.

The present physical culture class will give an exhibition and entertainment to its friends and those interested in this work about January 31.

A good deal of interest has been manifested in the classes scheduled for the new term of three months beginning February 7. Salaries Take $45,030.30 Other Items Are Named in Detail. Briggs Gives Report.

The annual report of Street Superintendent B. A. Briggs for 1909 shows that $68,389.65 was expended on the streets. Of this amount $45,030.30 was paid out in salaries. For the five months that Commissioner A. J. Lawton has been at the head of the department of public works and property, only $14,192.64 has been paid out for labor and salaries.

Among the items of the year are the construction of conduits on Uintah, Bijou, Boulder, Fountain, Fifteenth and El Paso streets, the cost of which was $9,397.17. In addition to this sum an expenditure of about $4,000 was necessary for new titles to drain the streets named, and for the filling and labor in connection with the jobs. No appropriation had been made for this, and the money had to be taken from the general street maintenance fund.

FIND A RICH SHOOT IN THE FINDLEY MINE

Lessees Ship Carload of Ore Estimated at Over Two Ounces Gold to the Ton.

Special to The Gazette

CRIPPLE CREEK, Jan 14.—Frank Clay and associates operating a block of ground between the tenth and eleventh levels of the Findley main shaft, have entered a rich ore shoot in the main Findley vein, and are saving ore for shipment that is expected to return values of two ounces gold to the ton

The ore is found next the hanging wall of the vein, and specimens of the quartz show the greenish tint associated with roscolite, frequently accompanying rich gold ores, together with a liberal distribution of calaverite in the cleavages of the rock. The lessees are taking out about eight feet of vein matter leaving the ore on the foot wall of the vein standing, to be mined later.

The lessees will send out their first carload shipment of screenings tomorrow and the gold value is estimated at better than two ounces to the ton. The coarse rock with but little sorting will ship at about one ounce gold to the ton, but the tonnage resulting will be heavy, as two machine drills are working in ore

To Sink W. P. H. Shaft.

The production from the W P H mine on Ironclad hill, operated under lease by Fogleman and Roach, will be light for the next 60 days, during the sinking of the main shaft an additional 100-foot lift to the 600-foot point. Oscar Fogleman, who personally superintends the work, is confident that before the 600-foot point is attained the Jerry Johnson flat vein, which has produced heavily and is still producing, on the adjoining property, will be encountered on its dip to the east. The W. P. H. mine is one of the heaviest producers of the United Gold Mines company and its output to date is not far short of three-quarters of a million of dollars. One ton of ore mined from the property by Harison and Seaver returned the lessees $23,000.

Abandons Oil as Fuel.

The Gold Issue mill on Carbonate hill has been temporarily shut down to permit of the installation of the Parkinson fire boxes but under contract with the Western Furnace company the roaster and boilers will be under fire within 30 days. The mill has been burning crude oil from the Florence field, but the failure of the oil company to deliver oil in sufficient quantity to keep the plant in constant operation necessitated the change. With the new fire boxes installed lignite coal will take the place of oil.

Annual Meeting Called.

A call has issued for the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Cripple Creek Gold Mining company, one of the oldest incorporated companies of the district, owning the Fortuna and Mohnyo lode mining claims immediately adjoining the city of Victor. The meeting will be held at the First National bank of Denver, Tuesday, January 18, for the election of directors and the transaction of such other business as may properly arise

The City View addition to the city of Victor is situated upon the claims owned by the company, and when lots were sold the mineral rights were in all cases reserved by the mining company.

STOCKS DROP SHARPLY ON HEAVY LIQUIDATIONS

Large Blocks Thrown on Market and Prices Generally Decline One to Three Points.

NEW YORK, Jan 14.—The resumption of liquidation in the stock market today set conjecture to work for some deeper cause to explain it than the more superficial influences which have given responsibility and which are passing away without relieving the market from depression

The call money market passed from a condition of relative to positive ease, but this proved powerless to check the unloading of stocks or to stimulate any new demand. The liquidation of stocks continued to put back funds into the money market, which is in course of replenishment as well from various other sources. This persistent liquidation is deemed important and as coming from influential sources having in view a prolonged outlook as well as retrospect

Continuous and persistent accumulation of stocks went on for many months during the rising prices of last year and there is reason to believe that the taking of profits on much of this speculation was planned for the opening weeks of the new year when easing money markets and reinvestment of yearly profits were looked to for the inspiration of a general demand for stocks

It was foreseen that legislative and judicial actions having important bearing on financial affairs would develop soon. Apparently the desirability of pushing the liquidation before further happenings in this field is appealing with greater force to holders of stocks. Liquidation was pushed with growing precipitation today and declines of one to three points had become general by the middle of the afternoon. In the Harriman Pacifics, St. Paul and a few others it was even greater.

The breaking through of prices to lower levels than had been touched on previous reactions was the signal for the uncovering of fresh stop loss orders and for bringing new burdens on the market. Washington prospects were said to be a principal motive for the throwing over of stocks. The widespread activity of the government in the field of corporation regulation and the prospect of early decisions by the supreme court which it was feared might present even graver conditions were made the staple of argument by the sellers of stocks.

The stock market showed no rallying power, lowest prices of the day being reached in the last hour with an even greater outpouring of stocks. The Harriman issues, St. Paul, U S Steel, Great Northern and Northern Pacific, were especially weak and apparently without support. The closing was very feverish with practically no recovery from the low.

Bonds were irregular. Total sales, par value, $4,770,000. U. S bonds were irregular

GRAIN PRICES SLUMP ON REALIZING SALES

Pressure Centered on May Wheat Which Falls Nearly Two Cents Below High Point.

CHICAGO, Jan 14.—Grain prices slumped sharply here today owing to liberal realizing sales brought out by prospects of an increased movement from the country. Prices at the close were almost at the bottom, final quotations on wheat showing a net loss of ⅞c to 1⅜c. Corn was down 1⅜c to 1⅝c, and oats ⅜c to ¾c. Provisions followed grain and closed weak.

Profit taking on a liberal scale was in evidence in the wheat pit throughout the entire session, and as a result prices sagged almost continuously from opening trades. The greatest selling pressure was centered on the May delivery and the prices on that option declined from $1.13⅝ to $1.11½@⅝. The market became extremely weak in the final half hour, registering losses of 1c to 1⅞@2c from the high points of the day. Closing figures on May were at $1.11⅝@¾.

During the day May corn sold between 68⅝@70¼c. Other deliveries moved over a range of 1⅛c to 1⅜c. The market closed at lowest point for all but the May option, final figures on which were at 68⅝@¾c.

Oats showed relatively less weakness but sentiment was bearish. The market closed weak with prices almost at the bottom.

Provisions closed unchanged to 12½c lower.

MOVEMENT OF PRODUCTS HAMPERED BY STORMS

Retail Trade Benefited by the Cold Weather and Business Generally Good.

NEW YORK, Jan 14. Bradstreet's tomorrow will say

Reports as to trade and transportation reflect variations of weather in regularly affecting sales and movement of farm products, coal supplies and spring goods to various markets

Retail trade in winter goods has been helped by cold, stormy weather and the usual January price revisions. A very fair volume of re-orders is reported by jobbers, while the volume of orders for spring reaching wholesale houses from travelers is fairly good

Transportation lines, particularly in the north and west, have been hampered by stormy weather and the movement of crops has been interfered with. Something approaching a coal famine still exists at many western points

Building operations have naturally been retarded by stormy weather and there is promise of some damage on western rivers from ice gorges.

Indoor industries seem to be actively employed, notably iron and steel. Best reports as to new business in iron and steel came from the west while eastern markets are rather quiet. There is some disappointment at the volume of buying of rails by eastern roads

Business failures in the United States for the week ending January 13 were 291, against 271 last week, 319 in the like week of 1909, 331 in 1908, 234 in 1907, and 279 in 1906.

Business failures in Canada for the week number 44, which compares with 33 for last week and 36 for the like week of 1909

BIG BULL CAMPAIGN IN COTTON COLLAPSES

Leading Operator Transfers His Holdings Under Pressure and Market Steadies.

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—The big bull campaign in cotton definitely collapsed today with the most spectacular decline seen in a week of erratic recessions. Reports freely circulated in the trade, after the close of the market, had it that the position of the leading southern bull has been completely undermined by the liquidation that has been in progress since early in the year.

At the low point today New York contracts showed a decline of from $5.20 to $5.60 a bale from the closing prices of the night previous, which was a break of from $6.10 to $6.50 a bale from the high point of the season. May contracts touched $13.70 late in the afternoon.

The bull market has lasted over a year. At the height of the campaign it was estimated that F. G. Scales of Texas, the leader, had accumulated paper profits of $10,000,000 for the season. As a Christmas present he is said to have given $10,000 to one of his favorite brokers, and another accepted story has it that he had given a million in cash to one of his brothers.

His heaviest holdings were in May cotton and he and his friends were generally believed to control contracts calling for the delivery of fully one million bales during that month

The situation had developed into a threat of the greatest squeeze of shorts ever recorded, but other bulls who had followed Mr. Scales' lead decided the time was ripe for a bear raid.

One after another the big accounts began to come into the market. The Scales party was said to have its cotton margined down to 10 cents a pound, and it was confidently asserted that its members would never abandon their position.

Events have proven, however, that the continued pressure was too heavy. Today it was announced that Mr. Scales was transferring his holdings to the leading bear interests.

As soon as the news spread that an agreement had been reached between the conflicting interests, the market received aggressive support, closing at from 20 to 30 points up from the low marks today

A much better feeling prevails in the trade tonight and it is thought that a quieter market may be expected for the coming week, with prices more generally influenced by legitimate demand and supply

After the official close May contracts changed hands at $14.10 compared with $13.70, the low point of the day. The mark at which the bears are said to have taken over the bull holdings was 13½ cents for May

HAPPY WOMEN

Mrs J. N Basham, 505 S Nevada Street, Colorado Springs Colo., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills have been of priceless value to me. About six years ago I was taken by a dull, dragging down pain in my back and the kidney secretions became far too frequent in passage. I doctored, but met with little success, and it seemed as if my trouble was gradually growing worse. Finally I tried Doan's Kidney Pills procured at the D Y Butcher Drug Co., and they brought me relief. I gave a testimonial for publication in December 1906, setting forth the above facts, and at the present time it gives me pleasure to confirm that statement."

A Magazine Free Every Week For You

Every Sunday The Gazette will give its readers a high class illustrated magazine as a part of its great Sunday issue without a penny of additional cost.

What It Contains Next Sunday

In next Sunday's issue there will be a liberal installment of a great serial story by Arthur W. Marchmont, whose name is known wherever good modern novels are read. He wrote "By Right of Sword," which was dramatized in this country; "The Man Who Was Dead" and several other best sellers. For the benefit of these who have not read the opening chapters, we will publish a complete synopsis so that you may get into the story without losing anything.

There will be three short stories in addition. One by William M. Clemens, entitled "The Mystery of the Wall Street Bear," an absorbing mystery story by a man who is recognized as New York's greatest writer in matters of criminology. Another is called "The Guardian of No. 97," a story that will stir up lively discussion of the topic "Are dreams ever prophetic?" The third short story is by Percival Landon, one of England's best short story writers, and a traveler of wide reputation. His tale is entitled "And Our Ignorance in Asking," and is different in plot and style.

There will be several special articles, chief among them an interesting and amusing article on "Letters to the Editor," by a woman who has for some years answered the thousands of letters that pour into the offices of a great magazine. This story is full of interest.

In addition to all these features, the Literary Magazine contains each week a department of humor by one of the few real American humorists of the present day, George Fitch, of Peoria. You've read the "Ole Skjarsen" football stories in the Saturday Evening Post everybody has; well, our George Fitch is the same George Fitch who wrote those stories. He is selling more stories to magazines today than any other humorist, for the reason that his genius is absolutely new and refreshing. His weekly department alone makes our Literary Magazine worth while.

RECKONING THE FIRE WASTE.

From the Saturday Evening Post.

For every two dollars spent on the construction of new buildings in the United Sates, one dollar's worth of property of the kind goes up in flame and smoke—absolutely wiped out, and a total loss forever.

Fire costs this country $215,000,000 a year, merely for buildings and their contents—this reckoning including insurance, the upkeep of fire departments, and the extra money that cities are obliged to pay for the additional water supply required to deal with fires. This means an expense of $600,000 for every day of the year, or $25,000 dollars for every hour of every day.

The fire waste in the United States for the last 33 years has amounted to a total of $4,484,326,000. Unfortunately, notwithstanding marked improvements in methods of fighting the destroyer, the damage it does steadily increases. In 1875 it was about seventy-eight million dollars. Eight years later it passed the one-hundred-million-dollar mark, and last year it ran over two hundred million dollars.

These figures are given by the technological branch of the United States Geological survey, which states that the enormous waste is due mainly to the prevalence of wooden buildings. More than two-thirds of our total fire losses last year were on frame buildings and their contents.

Chiefly because wooden buildings are forbidden in European cities, fire losses abroad are small compared with ours. In this country they amount annually to about two dollars and a half per capita for the entire population. In Europe they are only 46 cents per capita. If we kept our per-capita fire loss down to the European mark we would save one hundred and seventy-four million dollars a year.

Obviously, the way to reduce the fire waste is to compel the adoption of fireproof materials for building. Hence the experiments which the geological survey has been making for some time past with a view to finding out what materials are best for the purpose. The government itself owns six hundred million dollars' worth of buildings scattered all over the country, and is anxious to reduce its own losses by fire to the lowest possible point. But, in addition, it is considered that Uncle Sam ought to be a model builder, and to set a good example for the people to follow.

For some time past efforts have been made to raise funds in order to protect from the ravages of wind and weather and the encroachment of drifting sands the ruins of St. Piran's oratory at Perranzabuloe, said to be the oldest Christian relic of its kind in England.

With GEO. J. GATTVEER.

I CONGRATULATE YOU IF YOU HAVE DECIDED TO LOCATE IN IVYWILD.

You know it is the prettiest and best locality in the city, carfare 5 cents, schools and church in one block; no dust, no smoke, mountain stream; natural groves right at your door; shade in yard; cement walks and basements; gas and coal ranges in each house; electric light; fireplaces; big rooms; china closets; double floors, sheeted walls. These houses are built for homes and will give satisfaction; just outside the city limits. Taxes one-half what they are up town. I have 5, 6 and 7-room bungalows and cottages, and two-story residences; $30 a month pays both principal and interest, never any more. Can you afford to miss this? It pays to think as well as to work. Call and see me at 1631 S. Tejon St.
